Guns Are Silent As U.N. Force Enters Mideast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arab and Israeli guns were silent today as U.N. peacekeeping troops continued to move into Cairo. Russia said on Friday it had sent "representatives" to the Middle East to observe the cease-fire.

In Washington, President Nixon told a news conference that the United States and the Soviet Union would use their influence to bring about a negotiated settlement in the Middle East.

The President said the two superpowers have moved from the gravest crisis in a decade "to a great step toward real peace in the Middle East." He said the Mideast cease-fire seems to be holding.

The Moscow announcement prompted little concern in Washington. State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said the Soviet observers were not combat personnel. And Nixon said the United States also would send observers, if the United Nations requested it, "and we have reason to expect we will receive such a request."

The first contingent of U.N. peacekeeping troops — Austrian, Finnish and Swedish soldiers from the U.N. force on Cyprus — began landing at Cairo airport Friday night. Six hundred U.N. troops were expected to be in Cairo by dawn.

The troops, which the Security Council voted Thursday to send to the Middle East, wore camouflage uniforms and caps of United Nations blue and carried automatic weapons. Diplomatic sources said U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim asked the Security Council on Friday to authorize an eventual strength of 7,000 men for the force.

No fighting was reported late Friday. Earlier in the day, Israel said elements of Egypt's 3rd Army fought Israeli forces for three hours in a vain effort to escape from their cut-off position in the Sinai. An Israeli spokesman said a large number of Egyptian tanks were destroyed.

Israeli officers, meanwhile, claimed their troops have been occupying most of Suez City, the strategic gate to the southern end of the Suez Canal, since before the first U.N. cease-fire on Monday.

"The city has been almost completely occupied except for a few pockets of resistance — maybe a few hundred Egyptian soldiers in scattered units that can no longer be called a force," an Israeli lieutenant colonel said.

Associated Press correspondent Jon Broder reported from the Syrian front that the situation there was quiet and that U.N. observers were setting up new posts in the area.

U.S., Allies Split Over Military Alert

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Arab-Israeli war and this week's worldwide U.S. military alert apparently have strained relations between the United States and its European allies.

Government officials in several North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations were said Friday to be upset because President Nixon did not consult them about the alert and because of comments he and the State Department made about the allies' behavior in the Middle East crisis.

Nixon said at his news conference Friday night: "Our European friends hadn't been as cooperative as they might have been in attempting to work out the Middle East settlement."

He noted that Europe gets 80 per cent of its oil from the Middle East while the United States gets only 10 per cent from there. He declared that Europe "would have frozen to death this winter unless there had been a settlement."

Earlier, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said America's allies had "separated themselves publicly from us" during the crisis when "we would have appreciated support."

Much of the American concern apparently centered on the unwillingness of the European allies to allow bases inside their territories to be used as a relay points for arms shipments to Israel. U.S. officials said Friday that West Germany formally protested such use of the bases on Tuesday. Only one NATO ally had provided the necessary backing for the United States, McCloskey said Friday, apparently referring to Portugal.

But a British diplomat in Washington said his country was not asked for assistance. "It would have been a mistake to assume that we would have refused such a request," the diplomat said.

West Germany on Tuesday protested the United States' using bases in the country as relay points for supplies going to Israel. Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger said two days later that the German protest could force the United States to review the depth of its military and diplomatic commitment to Bonn.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and West German Ambassador Berndt Von Staden discussed the matter Friday evening, and Von Staden said afterward the talks had "a friendly atmosphere."

Watergate Prosecutor To Be Named Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he'll permit the appointment of a new Watergate special prosecutor next week, but one who will be under the same restraints defied by the ousted Archibald Cox.

"We will not provide presidential documents to a special prosecutor," Nixon told a televised news conference Friday night. It was that issue that triggered Nixon's firing of Cox just a week ago.

In announcing his decision to let Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork name a new prosecutor, the President said:

"It is time for those who are guilty to be prosecuted, and for those who are innocent to be cleared...I have no greater interest than to see that the new special prosecutor has the cooperation from the executive branch and the independence that he needs to bring about that conclusion."

Bork, in a Friday interview with a small group of newsmen, suggested Nixon's insistence that the new prosecutor avoid any court battle for additional presidential tapes or documents, could lead to another blow-up like the one that led to the Cox firing.

Speaking in advance of Nixon's news conference, Bork declared, "I would regard no legal procedure as out of bounds."

Record Soviet Grain Harvest Now Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department now expects the 1973 Soviet Union grain harvest to be a record of at least 200 million metric tons, up 5 million from previous U.S. estimates.

Officials said Friday the new estimate, to be published soon, has been in the works for some time but was not announced because of doubts created by recent rainy weather in Soviet grain areas.

The new figure was disclosed when reporters made inquiries about Russian crop prospects.

Fletcher Pope Jr., a specialist on Soviet crops in the Economic Research Service, told a reporter the brighter outlook for Soviet grain resulted in part from generally favorable fall harvest conditions.

Pope said it was "certainly in the realm of possibility" the Soviet grain crop could exceed the 200 million tons now expected by U.S. analysts. Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev said Friday the harvest will produce 215 million tons of grain, including wheat, rye and other commodities.

Last year a scant harvest of 168 million tons prompted Russia to buy huge quantities of wheat and other grain from the United States.

The previous record Soviet crop was 186.8 million tons harvested in 1970. Moscow had set a production goal this year of 197.4 million tons.

Asked what would happen if he saw evidence of White House interference with the new prosecutor, Bork said, "I couldn't tolerate it."

Remaining open was the possibility that Congress might reject Nixon's plan to name a new prosecutor who would be an employee of the executive branch. A majority of the Senate joined Friday in sponsoring legislation that would mandate U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to appoint a prosecutor who would be independent of both the Congress and the White House.

Nixon suggested Congress would abandon the measure.

William D. Ruckelshaus, fired as deputy attorney general when he refused to dismiss Cox on Nixon's order, said on a San Francisco TV talk show Friday he favors a new, independent office of the special prosecutor.

Nixon, before announcing he would accept a new prosecutor, although he abolished the job in ordering Cox's firing, said White House lawyers will meet Tuesday with Sirica to work out court-ordered delivery to the judge of nine tapes of presidential conversations sought by the ousted prosecutor.

Reaction Is Mixed To Nixon Move

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"... We have decided that next week, the acting attorney general, Mr. Bork, will appoint a new special prosecutor for what is called the Watergate matter," President Nixon said in the East Room of the White House.

"Great. Maybe it'll be Mitchell," attorney Nathan Cohn said sarcastically in his downtown San Francisco office.

"I think now he is on the way up," retired engineer Ewald Kipp said with relief at the University Club in Salt Lake City.

Once again the President was on television, this time to defend his handling of the Watergate tapes dispute, to update the nation on the boiling Middle East crisis and to face questions from what he clearly considered a hostile press corps.

And once again, America listened. "But we're sitting in on history," objected Paul Knox, 23, when his fiancée, Martha Griswold, 19, stopped by the family's farmhouse in Weare, N.H., to pick him up for a Friday night wedding rehearsal.

"We're going to be late," she insisted. She prevailed, and Paul departed with her for the church, leaving his parents, sister and hired man Frank Flis to watch the President on a poorly tuned color television set.

"It seems his foreign policy is on the right track, but at home he's still in trouble," commented Leslie Knox, 53, owner of the prosperous farm. "If Nixon was working for me, he certainly wouldn't get a raise, and I might fire him."

The Bill Sweeney family watched the conference in the family room of their white-framed home in Arlington Heights, a Chicago suburb. The youngest of their six children, 6-year-old Peggy, appeared most interested in whether she would hear "The Star-Spangled Banner."

"I don't know any more now than I did before," said Sweeney, a 36-year-old transportation executive. "He avoided the domestic crisis and talked all about the international things."

About 10 persons watched the news conference in the lobby of the Doral Hotel in Miami Beach. Tom Mears, a paper company executive from Tibbalds, La., felt the President handled himself well.

"I think he explained fully why he fired (Watergate special prosecutor Archibald) Cox," Mears said. "Nobody could impeach him. I think the press has been irresponsible and inaccurate."

Mears' wife, a Nixon campaign worker in 1972, agreed. "I feel a little better after tonight. I was really mad with his firing of Cox. He told him he could have a free hand and then he fired him."

Another couple at the Doral was less pleased. "He didn't say a thing," commented Harold Genis, a retired meat wholesaler.

His wife, Marjorie, dismissed the announcement of a new special prosecutor. "Nixon will keep on hiring and firing until he gets somebody who will do what he tells him," she said.

The turnout was light at the exclusive men-only University Club in Salt Lake City and at the Steel Workers Bar in Steelton, Pa., where a row of hardhats of various hues hang above the bar.

Kipp, the retired engineer, downed a bourbon-and-Coke at the club bar and said: "Seeing him on television tonight has greatness my respect for the man and what he has gone through. It must have been a very troublesome week. I think he's out of the thick of it now."

Kipp was one of only five persons who viewed the conference at the club. As the President began to speak, one member called to a friend across the bar: "Harry, do want to watch Nixon or play cards?"

"Hell," replied his friend, "let's play cards." With that, they adjourned to the card tables.

At the Steel Workers Bar, most of the dozen or so patrons elected to drink their draft beers or shoot pool, ignoring the portable TV at the end of the bar. At least one who did watch was not impressed.

"He's the biggest crook we ever had," said auto mechanic John Ronkovic. "I think we need something like they have in England. When a politician doesn't have a vote of confidence they throw him out."

The pale blue light of the TV illuminated one corner of the lobby of the Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans, and the sound of the President's voice competed with the sound of piped-in music.

"Something like this cannot completely change your mind," said Hilda Hood, a mother of eight who had been visiting friends at the hospital. "I guess I'm confused like a lot of people."

'Honest' Rebozo Faces Suspension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says his close friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo is "a totally honest man."

But a federal agency is considering whether to suspend him as president of a Florida bank, and Nixon himself opened new questions about why Rebozo kept a $100,000 contribution from billionaire Howard Hughes for three years.

Nixon was asked at his news conference Friday night about Rebozo and Hughes' $100,000, which Rebozo returned to the wealthy recluse this year.

Rebozo "showed, I think, very good judgment in doing what he did," said Nixon.

Nixon said after Rebozo received the contribution, "the Hughes Company, as you all know, had an internal fight of massive proportions, and he felt that such a contribution to the campaign might prove to be embarrassing."

"At the conclusion of the (1972) campaign, he decided that it would be in the best interests of everybody concerned rather than to turn the money over to them to be used in the '74 campaigns, to return it intact," Nixon said.

The Hughes organization dispute, however, occurred in December 1970, more than two years before Rebozo eventually returned the money. Hughes officials involved in the twin $50,000 donations have differed on whether the money was even intended for the 1972 campaign, or was rather for 1970 congressional elections.

Nixon did not explain and was not asked why Rebozo kept the money so long.

Nixon also explained that he personally "refused to have any discussion of contributions...before the election I did not want to have any information from anybody with regard to campaign contributions."

A 1970 letter to Nixon from a lobbyist, made public earlier this week, informed the President that milk producers were preparing to contribute $2 million to his 1972 campaign. The milk producers subsequently won a price increase. The contribution-price hike matter is now the subject of a court suit.

Nixon said he thought Rebozo's handling of the Hughes money "is a pretty good indication that he is a totally honest man, which he is."

Hours earlier, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said it would consider next week whether to suspend Rebozo as president of Key Biscayne Bank and Trust Co. in connection with the bank's acceptance of stolen stock as collateral for a $195,000 loan.

Good Farm Land Falling To Urban Expansion

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

A lot of cities and towns are like the man who said, "I only want the land that joins mine."

In general, Ohioans and other Americans depend on the market system to allocate land to different uses, as well as to different users in the economy. Over the years, non-agricultural (or generally urban) uses have been able to out bid potential farm users for land, according to William A. Wayt, professor in Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at The Ohio State University.

The agricultural census between 1960 and 1970 shows land in farms in Ohio declined by almost one and a half million acres, or some 140,000 acres per year. At the same time, price of farm land increased, on the average, from $250 to almost $400 per acre and since has gone up another 25 percent to over $500 per acre, Wayt explains.

Although only a small percentage of the total agricultural land base in Ohio—about 17 million acres—is permanently removed each year, the impact of its removal is out of proportion to the quantity taken. The purchase of land for non-farm uses such as housing, highways, reservoirs, airports, and various other non-farm uses leads to the expectation, and properly so, of future sales for such uses in the area. So, the impact on farm land prices is probably much greater than the acreage removed indicates. For example, in 1970 when the average value of farm real estate in Ohio was estimated at $400 per acre, the values were much higher in the more urbanized counties.

With the development of limited access highways and concentration of non-farm land uses around access points, the urban influence on farm land values is projected far into the countryside. This also contributes to sprawling urban developments, costly public services, and more land taken from agriculture than is really needed or used, Wayt says. And, because our good agricultural lands are fairly level, well-drained, and not too subject to erosion, they are desirable for housing subdivisions, shopping centers, and other non-farm uses. Since the non-farm users normally can pay a higher price and higher taxes, the better land moves to those uses. Presently, farm land in Ohio is taxed according to its probable or potential use rather than its agricultural use. This means that many farmers near or within the influence of cities or towns are faced with high tax payments on their land, because it may be near such industrial or residential areas, says Paul Thomas, Extension resource development specialist at The Ohio State University.

Issue One, a constitutional amendment coming up on the November 6 election ballot, if passed, would permit the Ohio General Assembly to enact legislation allowing appraisal of farm land for tax purposes according to the land's agricultural use value rather than its potential value for other development, Thomas says.

According to Wayt, we are not facing a shortage of agricultural production, yet, even though we have a decline in both quantity and quality of farm land. We have had considerable excess capacity in agricultural production, he says. However, the country is now in the process of expanding crop production on land that has not been cropped in recent years but has been held in reserve. This means that we are going to experience higher costs as we shift more agricultural production to poorer quality lands.

Worldwide, the problem of shortages is more pressing. Meeting future needs will likely require both better production on existing agricultural land and expansion into areas not so well suited to farm production.

Time to gather those black walnuts. Hull softness is a test of ripeness. A hard shell means an unripe nut.

Gather right after the nuts have become ripe enough to drop from trees without assistance, or when they can be shaken down easily. First, gather nuts that fell prematurely. Don't mix these with the good nuts. To ensure bright colored kernels, remove hulls immediately. Hulls that are left on will turn black and mushy. Then the juice penetrates the shells and discolors the kernels.

Use corn shellers, or any other process that combines power and abrasive force, to remove the hulls. Then clean the nuts to remove surface juices and hull particles. These will cause black specks to develop on kernels, if they are left on.

One way to wash hulled nuts is the use of water pressure. Another is scrubbing the surfaces of nuts while they are in a tub of water. After washing, dry the nuts so the kernels will have a low moisture content. To test for moisture, crack a few, and if the kernels break with a snap when bitten or pressured with the fingers, they're dry enough to store.

Nuts dry easily when placed no more than a couple of inches deep in a building with good air circulation. Or you can sun dry them. Artificial heat will do a good job, but keep the temperature under 110 degrees to avoid discoloration and bad taste.

Dig bulbs and tubers such as non-hardy gladiolus, cannas, lilies, and tuberous begonias right after the first sharp frost. Allow bulbs and tubers to dry to a point where soil will shake off, then treat with an insecticide and a fungicide to protect against storage rot and thrips.

Winter injury to roses comes from alternate freezing and thawing of the soil during warm spells in med-winter. This problem can be minimized by proper application of good winter mulch around the plants.

Don't put the mulch on until the right time. Applying it too early may result in as much damage to plants as no mulch at all. A heavy mulch applied before the ground freezes can prevent soil freeze. This encourages new growth too early in the spring before danger of killing frosts has passed. So wait until the soil has partially frozen before applying the mulch. Use materials that do not pack down tightly such as coarsely ground corn-cobs, clean straw, wood chips, or bark.

Fall planted chrysanthemums must have special care against winter kill, since they have not had a chance to become established in the soil before winter freezes. After plants have flowered, cut stems off close to the ground and destroy all stems, flowers and leaves to prevent over-wintering of diseases. To protect against heaving due to alternate freezing and thawing, mulch the plants with evergreen branches, coarse, coarse hay or similar material. Avoid using such material as peat moss, leaf mold, sawdust and leaves, since these will become compacted around the base of the plant.

Charge 'Parent' With Growing Marijuana Plants

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Cuyahoga County grand jury indicted a 23-year-old man Thursday for allegedly growing marijuana behind a cottage at the Children's Aid Society on Cleveland's West Side.

Police said they confiscated six marijuana plants growing behind the cottage.

Named in the indictment was Stephen Buttermore, a cottage "parent" at the agency, which is a residential treatment center for emotionally disturbed children.

Buttermore declined comment on the indictment.

Corn Prices Expected To Be Higher

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Corn acreage and prices are up from last year, with yields slightly lower. The 1973 corn crop was estimated on October to be four per cent higher than last year, according to Wallace Barr, Extension economist at The Ohio State University.

Prices, without export controls, will run higher than the average price received by farmers of $1.50 to $1.60 per bushel of last year. The 93.7 bushel estimated yield is slightly below the trend of 94 bushels and last year's big 96.9 bushel average.

Farmers responded to record prices and removal of feed grain set aside requirements by planting seven per cent more acres. Total supply, however, is down to 6.5 billion bushels or about 130 million bushels below a year ago.

With devaluation reducing costs to foreign buyers, and strong domestic demand for feeds, 1973-74 corn prices may average as much as 30 to 60 cents per bushel above the 1972-73 average. Any wide price fluctuations from month to month will reflect the changing world feed supply-demand situation.

All set aside and base acreage requirements have been canceled for 1974. Producers may voluntarily cancel long-term land retirement agreements. This has the potential of increasing acreage for all crops in 1974 by another 20 million acres, according to Barr.

Assessment of the U.S. and world feed grain situation indicates there is little danger of overdoing feed grain production until 1975 or 1976.

Fertilizer Controls Are Lifted

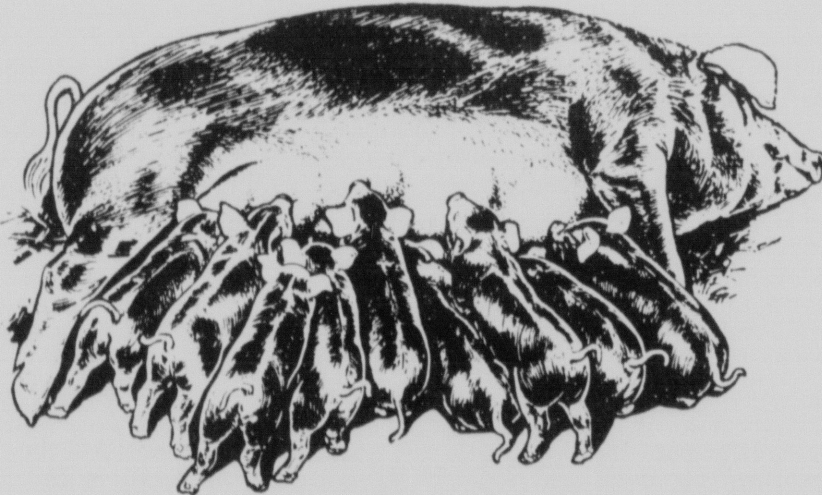

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move aimed at increasing food production the government Thursday lifted price controls from the fertilizer industry.

And, at the same time, the Agriculture Department reported that the cost of food declined markedly last month.

Despite the action freeing fertilizer prices, however, John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, said he opposes lifting controls from all industries because consumers need the protection.

If controls were lifted this year, as big labor and big business have demanded in recent weeks, Dunlop said there would be a "magnitude of price increases that would be unsatisfactory."

It was the first time a top administration spokesman had said he favored keeping the controls program beyond the end of the year. Congressional authority for wage-price controls expires next April unless the administration seeks a renewal.

Get big litters of husky pigs ... Feed Purina Sow Chow

A sow is a pig factory. She has the big job of producing and nursing two litters of pigs every year.

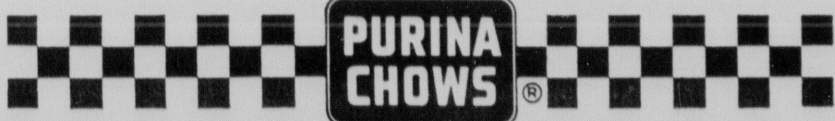

Like any other factory, she has to have raw ingredients to produce the products (pigs) and maintain the factory (her own body). If she doesn't get proper nutrition, she may actually resorb some pigs into her system, causing you to lose pigs you will never even see; or she may farrow weak, unthrifty litters.

Purina Sow Chow has what it takes to help the sow keep her own body, farrow big litters and have plenty of milk to start them right. Purina Sow Chow is available as a supplement to your grain or as a complete sow ration.

Farmers Reminded Of Benefits Of ASCS Commodity Loans

As area farmers complete harvest operations this fall and finalize sales plans for the unmarked portion of their crops that they should not overlook the availability of commodity loans offered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) as a possible part of their marketing planning.

This reminder comes from Walton W. Spangler, executive director of the Pickaway County ASCS office. Spangler explains that while current market prices are above the 1973 loan rates for the commodities under the loan program, producers may find advantages in the loan program for interim crop income if they plan to sell at a later date, thus providing themselves with greater independence in their crop marketing. Loans are available on several crops grown in Pickaway County, including wheat, corn and soybeans.

Spangler emphasized that ASCS is not in a position to tell farmers when or how to market, but that he does feel an obligation to remind producers that the loan program is available for those who want to utilize it as a marketing tool in obtaining maximum crop income. Even though market prices are above loan, it's good business for producers to be aware of the marketing options available to them, Spangler said. Government loans are one of several techniques. Other options include forward contracting, hedging the crop through the use of futures markets, periodic partial sales, as well as combinations of the various techniques, Spangler said. Producers interested in utilizing the commodity loan program should contact the county ASCS Office.

Good Farm Land Falling To Urban Expansion

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

A lot of cities and towns are like the man who said, "I only want the land that joins mine."

In general, Ohioans and other Americans depend on the market system to allocate land to different uses, as well as to different users in the economy. Over the years, non-agricultural (or generally urban) uses have been able to out bid potential farm users for land, according to William A. Wayt, professor in Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at The Ohio State University.

The agricultural census between 1960 and 1970 shows land in farms in Ohio declined by almost one and a half million acres, or some 140,000 acres per year. At the same time, price of farm land increased, on the average, from $250 to almost $400 per acre and since has gone up another 25 percent to over $500 per acre, Wayt explains.

Although only a small percentage of the total agricultural land base in Ohio—about 17 million acres—is permanently removed each year, the impact of its removal is out of proportion to the quantity taken. The purchase of land for non-farm uses such as housing, highways, reservoirs, airports, and various other non-farm uses leads to the expectation, and properly so, of future sales for such uses in the area. So, the impact on farm land prices is probably much greater than the acreage removed indicates. For example, in 1970 when the average value of farm real estate in Ohio was estimated at $400 per acre, the values were much higher in the more urbanized counties.

With the development of limited access highways and concentration of non-farm land uses around access points, the urban influence on farm land values is projected far into the countryside. This also contributes to sprawling urban developments, costly public services, and more land taken from agriculture than is really needed or used, Wayt says. And, because our good agricultural lands are fairly level, well-drained, and not too subject to erosion, they are desirable for housing subdivisions, shopping centers, and other non-farm uses. Since the non-farm users normally can pay a higher price and higher taxes, the better land moves to those uses. Presently, farm land in Ohio is taxed according to its probable or potential use rather than its agricultural use. This means that many farmers near or within the influence of cities or towns are faced with high tax payments on their land, because it may be near such industrial or residential areas, says Paul Thomas, Extension resource development specialist at The Ohio State University.

Issue One, a constitutional amendment coming up on the November 6 election ballot, if passed, would permit the Ohio General Assembly to enact legislation allowing appraisal of farm land for tax purposes according to the land's agricultural use value rather than its potential value for other development, Thomas says.

According to Wayt, we are not facing a shortage of agricultural production, yet, even though we have a decline in both quantity and quality of farm land. We have had considerable excess capacity in agricultural production, he says. However, the country is now in the process of expanding crop production on land that has not been cropped in recent years but has been held in reserve. This means that we are going to experience higher costs as we shift more agricultural production to poorer quality lands.

Worldwide, the problem of shortages is more pressing. Meeting future needs will likely require both better production on existing agricultural land and expansion into areas not so well suited to farm production.

The Blue And Gold

CROSS-COUNTRY PRACTICE—Steve Gregory and Scott Harmount are shown in this candid shot practicing for the cross-country district meet. The meet is scheduled Oct. 27 at the Raymond Memorial Gold Course.

Cross-Country Team Readies For Meet

By GAIL CONLEY And PENNY SHIELDS

When fall comes around the most publicized sport in the Ashville area is football, but there is another sport which really should arouse a little interest. Teays Valley's Cross Country team has been working hard all fall to be able to represent the school well in the area meets. Coach Hoover heads up the Cross Country team and seems to think we have some outstanding runners.

Mike Figgins, TV's number one man, says he's been running in Cross Country for about three years and runs from four to eight miles each day to keep in shape. All this practice has paid off because Mike has pulled in three third place awards, one second place, and one big first place award in the meets so far.

When asked how they practice and feel about the team some of the members answered:

Dave Barr: "I run 4 miles every night. My best time is 12 min. 56 sec.

for one mile. I feel the team is dedicated and hard working."

Jeff Trimble: "I run 4 miles every night. My best time is 13 min. for one mile. I thought Cross Country was great. It needs to improve next year."

Terry Trego: "It's a lot of running and its fun going to the away meets. I feel we are dedicated but we need more improvement just like bigger guys."

Jeff Houser: "It's a lot of work and conditioning. I feel we are dedicated to our job. We need a lot of improvement."

Bruce Wharton: I think the team needs a considerable amount of work. We weren't as good this year as we could have been and therefore didn't win any of the meets we attended.

Class Sells Magazines For Project

TOP SALESMAN—Joe Ehman sold more magazine subscriptions than any of his classmates. Joe won a portable television for being the high salesman.

By REGINA BLUCK

The Teays Valley sophomore sale ended October 10. They sold $6700 worth of magazines which was $500 more than they needed to get for the 8½ ft. gold viking.

Top salesman in the magazine drive was Joe Ehman. He won a portable television for selling over $375 worth of magazine subscriptions.

When asked their opinion about the sale, the sopomores had a variety of responses.

Sally Miller, said "As treasurer of the sophomore class, I was thrilled that everyone was so enthusiastic about the sale, and we got our viking."

"I thought it was really great! I have never gone to a school that has been so enthusiastic about wanting to reach their goal," replied Vera Hill.

Tami Trego, spoke of the student body, "I was really impressed that the kids supported our class."

"It was okay, was all we could get from Kim Norris.

Glenn Hinkle informed us, "It was the only class that made their goal."

Ron Catron, said, "It was a good experience. It let me meet a lot of new people."

"It was really great. More people got out and worked this year," said Jay Van Pelt, when asked what he thought of the sophomore magazine sale.

Trade Surplus Reported For U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States had a trade surplus during September of $873 million, the biggest single monthly surplus in more than eight years, the Commerce Department reported today.

The huge surplus of exports over imports surprised even government trade officials.

Exports were listed as $6,448,400,000 and imports at $5,575,100,000, an increase of 7.4 per cent for exports and a decline of 7.4 per cent for imports from a month earlier.

Oil Pinch Would Hurt Europeans

LONDON (AP) — If all Britain's 12 million cars stopped dead for a year, the oil saved would make little difference in the face of a sustained Arab cutback of fuel supplies.

Eventually, experts concede, much of British industry might have to shut down. Homes, schools and offices would go largely without heat. Air transport, shipping and most of the nation's trains could come to a halt.

Such is the potential stranglehold Arab oil holds over the nations of Western Europe. Together they rely on the Middle East and North Africa for some 80 per cent of their oil supplies.

The United States, which gets only 6 per cent of its oil from the Middle East, has worried about possible shortages of heating fuels or perhaps gasoline rationing. This would be only the beginning in Western Europe.

In Britain, for example, coupons to ration gasoline are printed and ready for distribution. If the crunch comes they would be little help. All the cars in Britain use only 13 million tons of oil a year and the country now imports annually some 70 million tons of oil from the Middle East.

Despite the potential threat, an Associated Press survey shows European governments are stressing for the time being that the short-term supply outlook is still fairly good.

Britain now has 79 days of oil supplies in reserve and another 30 days supply in tankers on the way, Trade and Industry Minister Peter Walker said. "We are now in a position to meet requirements for some months ahead if there were an emergency," he told parliament.

Woman Finds People Care In Shooting

HONOLULU (AP) — One of two mainland women shot and robbed at a scenic Hawaii lookout last weekend has been released from a local hospital. The other woman remained in guarded condition.

The women, Rosemary Lay of Lakewood, Ohio, and Christine Eichenlaub of Erie, Pa., both 36, were sightseeing Sunday night at the Pali lookout near Honolulu when three men attacked them.

Mrs. Lay was released from St. Francisco Hospital Thursday and planned to return to the mainland Saturday. She said there were still metal fragments in her leg and arms from her gunshot wounds.

Mrs. Eichenlaub was shot in the arm and abdomen. Part of her left arm was amputated after being shattered by the bullet. She was listed in guarded condition.

Police were continuing their search for suspects in the case.

The Trade Publishing Co. of Honolulu Thursday offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the men.

Before leaving her hospital room Thursday, Mrs. Lay said response

Walker said the government has plans to limit exports of fuels, to urge public restraint in the use of fuels, and eventually to ration. Many other West European governments, with two or three months supply of oil in reserve, are thinking on the same lines.

There is little the Europeans can do to make up the losses from the announced Arab intention to cut back oil production by 5 per cent a month in support of Arab war aims against Israel. No other source of oil or other form of energy is available now to replace Arab supplies.

European oil companies, like their American counterparts, are heavily committed to drilling efforts elsewhere. Some 95 per cent of all oil company explorations for new sources of supply by 5 per cent outside the Middle East, in places like the North Sea, Indonesia, Nigeria and many others.

Science Club Works To Save Stage's Pond

By RON CATRON

Teays Valley's Science Club is working in cooperation with the Pickaway County Garden Club in an effort to raise $20,000.00 to purchase the Stage's Pond area.

Stage's Pond is a glacier kettle basin located 1½ miles south of Teays Valley. If purchased, the land will be set aside as a nature conservatory and various groups from local schools will be able to visit the area and observe wildlife in its natural state.

During the Oct. 16 meeting of the Science Club, two representatives from the State Department of Natural Resources showed a film of the Stages Pond area and several slides of various parks around the state.

Mr. John Karg, one of the Science Club advisors, said, "I feel that the Science Club is doing a good job in supporting the Stage's Pond project which is very commendable as it will save the area for the future betterment of the community."

Mr. Dale Allen, another club advisor, said, "This is an irreplaceable asset that can't be replaced or reclaimed and should be preserved for future generations."

Mr. Howard Weaver, guidance counselor, is heading the project and will be working with the various members of the Science Club in their drive to obtain the money.

Prime Rate Being Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — First National City Bank, the nation's second largest commercial bank, announced today it was cutting its prime rate by ¼ percentage point to 9½ per cent.

The move was expected to be followed by other banks and was viewed by many analysts as a strong indication of an easing of the tight money market.

The prime rate is the minimum lending rate banks charge their largest corporate customers. While the prime is not directly tied to interest on small business and consumer loans, it often reflects interest rates in general.

It was the second time in as many weeks that City Bank has initiated a cut in the prime rate which two weeks ago stood at an all-time high of 10 per cent.

Cross-Country Team Readies For Meet

By GAIL CONLEY And PENNY SHIELDS

When fall comes around the most publicized sport in the Ashville area is football, but there is another sport which really should arouse a little interest. Teays Valley's Cross Country team has been working hard all fall to be able to represent the school well in the area meets. Coach Hoover heads up the Cross Country team and seems to think we have some outstanding runners.

Mike Figgins, TV's number one man, says he's been running in Cross Country for about three years and runs from four to eight miles each day to keep in shape. All this practice has paid off because Mike has pulled in three third place awards, one second place, and one big first place award in the meets so far.

When asked how they practice and feel about the team some of the members answered:

Dave Barr: "I run 4 miles every night. My best time is 12 min. 56 sec.

for one mile. I feel the team is dedicated and hard working."

Jeff Trimble: "I run 4 miles every night. My best time is 13 min. for one mile. I thought Cross Country was great. It needs to improve next year."

Terry Trego: "It's a lot of running and its fun going to the away meets. I feel we are dedicated but we need more improvement just like bigger guys."

Jeff Houser: "It's a lot of work and conditioning. I feel we are dedicated to our job. We need a lot of improvement."

Bruce Wharton: I think the team needs a considerable amount of work. We weren't as good this year as we could have been and therefore didn't win any of the meets we attended.

Class Sells Magazines For Project

TOP SALESMAN—Joe Ehman sold more magazine subscriptions than any of his classmates. Joe won a portable television for being the high salesman.

By REGINA BLUCK

The Teays Valley sophomore sale ended October 10. They sold $6700 worth of magazines which was $500 more than they needed to get for the 8½ ft. gold viking.

Top salesman in the magazine drive was Joe Ehman. He won a portable television for selling over $375 worth of magazines subscriptions.

When asked their opinion about the sale, the sophomores had a variety of responses.

Sally Miller, said "As treasurer of the sophomore class, I was thrilled that everyone was so enthusiastic about the sale, and we got our viking."

"I thought it was really great! I have never gone to a school that has been so enthusiastic about wanting to reach their goal," replied Vera Hill.

Tami Trego, spoke of the student body, "I was really impressed that the kids supported our class."

"It was okay, was all we could get from Kim Norris."

Glenn Hinkle informed us, "It was the only class that made their goal."

Ron Catron, said, "It was a good experience. It let me meet a lot of new people."

"It was really great. More people got out and worked this year," said Jay Van Pelt, when asked what he thought of the sophomore magazine sale.

Trade Surplus Reported For U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States had a trade surplus during September of $873 million, the biggest single monthly surplus in more than eight years, the Commerce Department reported today.

The huge surplus of exports over imports surprised even government trade officials.

Exports were listed as $6,448,400,000 and imports at $5,575,100,000, an increase of 7.4 per cent for exports and a decline of 7.4 per cent for imports from a month earlier.

Oil Pinch Would Hurt Europeans

LONDON (AP) — If all Britain's 12 million cars stopped dead for a year, the oil saved would make little difference in the face of a sustained Arab cutback of fuel supplies.

Eventually, experts concede, much of British industry might have to shut down. Homes, schools and offices would go largely without heat. Air transport, shipping and most of the nation's trains could come to a halt.

Such is the potential stranglehold Arab oil holds over the nations of Western Europe. Together they rely on the Middle East and North Africa for some 80 per cent of their oil supplies.

The United States, which gets only 6 per cent of its oil from the Middle East, has worried about possible shortages of heating fuels or perhaps gasoline rationing. This would be only the beginning in Western Europe.

In Britain, for example, coupons to ration gasoline are printed and ready for distribution. If the crunch comes they would be little help. All the cars in Britain use only 13 million tons of oil a year and the country now imports annually some 70 million tons of oil from the Middle East.

Despite the potential threat, an Associated Press survey shows European governments are stressing for the time being that the short-term supply outlook is still fairly good.

Britain now has 79 days of oil supplies in reserve and another 30 days supply in tankers on the way, Trade and Industry Minister Peter Walker said. "We are now in a position to meet requirements for some months ahead if there were an emergency," he told parliament.

Woman Finds People Care In Shooting

HONOLULU (AP) — One of two mainland women shot and robbed at a scenic Hawaii lookout last weekend has been released from a local hospital. The other woman remained in guarded condition.

The women, Rosemary Lay of Lakewood, Ohio, and Christine Eichenlaub of Erie, Pa., both 36, were sightseeing Sunday night at the Pali lookout near Honolulu when three men attacked them.

Mrs. Lay was released from St. Francisco Hospital Thursday and planned to return to the mainland Saturday. She said there were still metal fragments in her leg and arms from her gunshot wounds.

Mrs. Eichenlaub was shot in the arm and abdomen. Part of her left arm was amputated after being shattered by the bullet. She was listed in guarded condition.

Police were continuing their search for suspects in the case.

The Trade Publishing Co. of Honolulu Thursday offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the men.

Before leaving her hospital room Thursday, Mrs. Lay said response

Walker said the government has plans to limit exports of fuels, to urge public restraint in the use of fuels, and eventually to ration. Many other West European governments, with two or three months supply of oil in reserve, are thinking on the same lines.

There is little the Europeans can do to make up the losses from the announced Arab intention to cut back oil production by 5 per cent a month in support of Arab war aims against Israel. No other source of oil or other form of energy is available now to replace Arab supplies.

European oil companies, like their American counterparts, are heavily committed to drilling efforts elsewhere. Some 95 per cent of all oil company explorations for new sources of supply are now outside the Middle East, in places like the North Sea, Indonesia, Nigeria and many others.

A Page Of Opinion

Weighty Problem

Congress is having trouble committing itself to the last stages of a metric conversion system for the United States, but that end result is inevitable.

Carrying on much longer in an increasingly commercial world with the English system of weights and measurements while all but a dozen or so very small countries compute in the decimalized metric system would be like speaking Brooklynese to a class of Shakespearean actors.

It isn't prestige but necessity which has forced some major industries into a dual system of measurements: one for domestic consumption and another for dealings with the international market. The nation may not yet be officially committed to conversion, but it is happening in a piecemeal fashion nevertheless.

When conversion officially begins, schools will be among the first to employ the metric system in the classroom. No point in bringing up another generation on the old system.

But what of the tens of millions who are well out of the classroom and unexposed to metric use elsewhere?

For them, a new industry is being born. Knowing how many liters of oil fill a car engine or what it means when the temperature rises to 25 degrees Celsius could be important. A pocket calculator with conversion programming built in will do the job. At least until the old dialogue isn't spoken any more.

Impeachment Psychology

By JEFFREY HART

Impeachment now appears to be the only desirable course, not only from the standpoint of the President's opponents but also from the perspective of the White House itself.

By firing special prosecutor Cox, Richard Nixon has in a sense forced his opponents in Congress and in the press to come clean.

For months and months we have been listening to denunciations of the President over the Watergate affair. The Ervin committee has held its diurnal hearings. Sen. Lowell Weicker and countless others have moralized and moralized. But the public soon began to sense something hollow about the whole affair, because nothing was actually going to happen.

If all the President's critics were to be taken at face value, Nixon should have been removed from office. Yet none, even those comparing him with Adolf Hitler, was saying quite that. Therefore, everyone sensed, it was something of a charade.

The question of whether a head of state is legitimate is of course a political rather than a legal question. Many a ruler has committed indictable crimes, and history is full of kings who came to power over the bodies of cousins or rivals, but then, by whatever legitimizing process they obtained, succeeded to full legitimacy. England might in fact want or need a Henry III, Florence a Borgia.

To say all this is not to concede that President Nixon has committed a single crime. It is to say, however, that his legitimacy is and always has been a political question.

Since the framers of the Constitution knew this too, they provided a political mechanism for affirming or denying such legitimacy: impeachment.

Now it will be noticed that impeachment is a two-edged weapon. Say, for example, that a motion to impeach is introduced in the House. If it then dies in committee, the public has a right to say: "The Watergate issue is dead." Not having put up, Nixon's opponents would have to shut up. The root question, of whether he could continue as President, would have been answered.

Or contemplate an even worse outcome from the standpoint of Nixon's enemies.

The bill to impeach actually comes to the floor of the House for a vote. Numerous speeches are made. The vote comes and 50 Congressmen vote to impeach. The move thus loses in a landslide. (And this, by the way, would be a vote on which abstention would be an intellectual impossibility.) Nixon's legitimacy would be dramatically reaffirmed. Again, having failed to put up, the critics would have to shut up.

Like any drama, the Watergate affair must have an ending, one way or another. Otherwise, it is unseemly, mere sound and fury signifying nothing and going nowhere, Hamlet without the Fifth Act.

We now therefore are moving toward the final act of Watergate. The critics of the Administration have at last been forced to become serious.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk musings of a Pavement Plato:

So you are one among the half of the world's population who suffer from chronic boredom.

And you want to do something about it? Well, it isn't an easy problem to solve, but perhaps we can offer a few suggestions.

First, it is necessary to find out what is causing your boredom and, second, to consider means of getting rid of it.

Perhaps the culprit is your hobby. Oddly enough, the hobbies that people take up to add another interest to their lives often become a curse in time. I know of a fellow who took up stamp collecting for a hobby on the advice of his psychiatrist. Soon he hated stamps so much that he became bilious at the sight of a stamped envelope, and he had to retire from business.

Then he went to a chiropractor, who advised him to take up girl watching as a hobby, as it would provide good exercise for his arthritic neck. My friend did this and says he hasn't had a moment of boredom since, except during a few weekend blizzards when he wasn't able to leave the house.

Another common but unrecognized cause of boredom, particularly in America, is pseudo culture. We are bombarded to mental numbness by too many pompous after-dinner speakers, lecturers, and literary lions, confused by esoteric book critics, religious cultists, gurus, famous television personalities and professional athletic freaks.

Perhaps those feelings would go away if we spent more time sitting on park benches debating with the squirrels or pigeons or hanging around an old-fashioned pool hall listening to the snappy chatter of the dudes gathered there.

Marriage is blamed by some cowardly husbands for their boredom. I believe wives are the most interesting of all conversationalists. If a man is bored by a wife's conversation, I feel, he should get up and leave her and go home and listen to his own wife for a change. He might find her conversation far less boring. Anyway, he's always safer in his own home.

They could force Nixon from office; Congress could fail to vote or vote against impeachment, thus confirming Nixon. My own guess is that Nixon's latest series of moves will in the crunch show up the weakness of his opponents.

Finally, we come to the crux of the whole problem of boredom. This is that fact that most people are bored, not by other people or other things, but with themselves.

Yes, it is likely that you — bright, warm-hearted, intelligent, highly talented little old you — are the architect and chief source of your own boredom.

And if you are boring yourself, the chances are that you are boring most of those around you. Think that over.

Then do something. Anything that's a change. Have your face lifted, have your heart lifted, have your soul lifted. Change in bright ways. Be new to yourself, and you'll be new to others.

But, above all, get rid of self pity. For it is the people who feel sorry for themselves who sit on the loneliest thrones in the kingdom of boredom.

More Money Eyed For Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., says the proposed Mine Health and Safety Academy at Beckley, W.Va., will require an additional $3 million for completion.

In a letter to Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate Interior subcommittee, Byrd said the Mining Enforcement and Services Administration had informed him that the $13 million already appropriated for the facility "will be sufficient to permit award of the contract for the basic structure but it will not meet the costs of construction supervision and the alternate contract items," which include a "gate house, enclosure of the shop area and recreation items."

Life's Ambition Buzzing Along

COURTENAY, BC (AP) — At 35, Walter Rigler's main goal in life was to keep bees. Now, 54 years later, the 89-year-old Rigler is still keeping bees. He said his 35 hives produce about 2,000 pounds of honey each year.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Urinary infections are often difficult to track down. Infections in the kidney, the ureter, and the bladder are now more readily pinpointed because of a new enzyme that can be detected in the urine.

Dr. Larry H. Bernstein and his co-workers at the University of California, San Diego, School of Medicine, have been studying the enzyme, adenylate kinase. This enzyme is not present in the urine of healthy people.

Using this enzyme, these doctors believe it is possible to establish the exact part of the urinary tract affected by disease.

Another important by-product is that the presence of the enzyme may show early evidences of rejection when a kidney transplantation is performed.

The test, done in only a few minutes, may be a valuable asset to the tests now available.

The "Pap" test is acknowledged to be one of the most remarkable contributions of modern medicine.

Thousands of women with cancer of the cervix of the uterus are alive and are a testimonial to Doctor Papanicolaou, who first devised the "smear test" for early cancer of the cervix.

A new test for cancer of the cervix has recently been reported and developed by Dr. Laure Aurelian at the Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore.

Dr. Aurelian and her colleagues believe they have identified a special antibody that exists only in the blood of women with cancer of the cervix.

The work is proceeding actively, both in experimental animals and in humans. If proved successful, this may yet become a more rapid and definitive test for the earliest possible detection of cervical cancer.

Another significant phase of this work is that the antibody disappears when successful treatment of such cancers has been attained.

The test, therefore, would be vitally important in following the progress of the treatment of cancers of the cervix.

The detection of heroin users sometimes defies the efforts of those who try to uncover addiction.

It is well known that heroin addicts are remarkable ingenious in covering the tell-tale evidences of addiction.

Needle puncture wounds and track marks are cleverly covered with masking pastes and cosmetics.

A new test has been devised by Dr. David Sohn of the New York Medical College. The test is based on the fact that addicts who sniff heroin into the nose show evidence of the quinine normally used to dilute heroin.

A simple swab of the nose may reveal the presence of quinine. Quinine can also be detected in the urine of those who are suspected of being heroin users.

This test may be a valuable adjunct in recognizing heroin addiction in order to institute earlier and more effective treatment.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It was planned as a largely ceremonial affair by educators and industrialists to encourage donations to the nation's most prestigious private universities.

The institutions of business and education needed each other, it was said. And since big business had the money and the universities needed it badly, wasn't it logical that ideas and money should be exchanged?

Assembled at the University Club were leaders of some great American universities: Harvard, Chicago, Stanford, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cornell, the University of Pennsylvania.

Joining them were some elite of American industry, many of them members or sympathizers of the Committee for Corporate Support of American Universities. The luncheon would promote the need for contributions, which have fallen off.

The funds needed most, said a booklet planned but not yet published, were those that permitted the universities to establish their own priorities — unrestricted, discretionary funds, rather than those rigidly specified.

Featured speaker was David Packard, Stanford class of 1934, cofounder of the giant Hewlett-Packard scientific instruments company, former deputy defense secretary under President Nixon, former Stanford trustee, long-time friend of education.

"I recognize that for the university, unrestricted money is most valuable," he said after the prime steaks were consumed. "It does not necessarily follow, however, that unrestricted money, used as it has been used is always in the interest of the corporation."

Silence was deep as he explained that times have changed. Almost every college board today must have representatives of students, faculty, alumni, ethnic groups and the like, he said.

"Moreover, much of the power has gone to the faculty, and too often faculty decisions are determined by a militant minority of the faculty."

Because of this and other reasons, he said, "I believe the case for a corporation giving unrestricted funds to a private university can no longer be supported." Contributions should continue, he said, but with strings attached.

In a series of rhetorical questions he presented some reasons. "Is kicking ROTC programs off the campus the kind of leadership we need? Is prohibiting business from recruiting ... the kind of leadership we need?"

Some of the educators looked grim. Packard sounded bitter. "Should these universities serve as havens for radicals who want to destroy the free enterprise system? Should students be taught that American corporations are evil ...?"

Ceremony became controversy. Derek C. Bok, Harvard president, rose to defend the freedom of a great university must preserve even, he said, at the cost of tolerating distasteful, unconstructive behavior.

"Understandably you should give in self-interest," he said, but he urged the executives to interpret self-interest broadly.

The great universities, he said, were a national asset. Their research and scholarship were basic to business and the economy, to the balance of payments, to the nation's competitive position, to health and welfare, to culture.

"The difference between vitality and stagnation in these leading centers of research is only a few million a year," he said. "But to let them stagnate may prove to be hundreds of times greater."

He concluded: "The country is challenged. Its vitality depends on this research. So, we ask you to appreciate the stage in society you have."

The more influential of the two views will be established by the flow of future contributions, but a costly legacy of bitterness remains from the days of campus turmoil. Contributions still aren't back to where they were five years ago.

Romans, Vandals, Goths, Byzantines, Lombards, Aragonese, Genoese, Moors and Barbary pirates all took part in ravaging, enslaving, taxing and hounding the Corsican people.

They'll Do It Every Time

Weighty Problem

Congress is having trouble committing itself to the last stages of a metric conversion system for the United States, but that end result is inevitable.

Carrying on much longer in an increasingly commercial world with the English system of weights and measurements while all but a dozen or so very small countries compute in the decimalized metric system would be like speaking Brooklynese to a class of Shakespearean actors.

It isn't prestige but necessity which has forced some major industries into a dual system of measurements: one for domestic consumption and another for dealings with the international market. The nation may not yet be officially committed to conversion, but it is happening in a piecemeal fashion nevertheless.

When conversion officially begins, schools will be among the first to employ the metric system in the classroom. No point in bringing up another generation on the old system.

But what of the tens of millions who are well out of the classroom and unexposed to metric use elsewhere?

For them, a new industry is being born. Knowing how many liters of oil fill a car engine or what it means when the temperature rises to 25 degrees Celsius could be important. A pocket calculator with conversion programming built in will do the job. At least until the old dialogue isn't spoken any more.

Today In History

Members of the Pickaway County Garden Club held a dinner meeting at the Pickaway Country Club. Thirty-six members and one guest, Mrs. H. E. Montelius, were seated at tables centered with rosebuds from the garden of Miss Ruth Montelius.

Door prizes were awarded to Mrs. Virgil Cress, Mrs. Ed Fetherolf and Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer.

City Council accepted a plat for a proposed subdivision in the Nicholas Drive-Fairview Ave. area. The plat, showing 11 lots, was named the Courtland Subdivision.

Page Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Miller, Route 1, was named Miss Pumpkin Show of 1963. Attendees for the new queen were Ann Elizabeth Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hoffman, 1435 N. Court St., and Fay Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Young, Route 2, Amanda.

The honor of showing the largest pumpkin in the huge Pumpkin Show display on W. Main St. went to Kathryn Dunkle. The entry weighed 135½ pounds.

A cornfield fire destroyed five acres of standing corn, burned 30 acres of stalks and a self propelled picker-sheller on the Roger Allen farm located on the Circleville-Lockbourne road. Damage to the picker was placed at $3,000. The fire started when dry fodder lodged against the motor of the picker ignited.

Impeachment Pschology

By JEFFREY HART

Impeachment now appears to be the only desirable course, not only from the standpoint of the President's opponents but also from the perspective of the White House itself.

By firing special prosecutor Cox, Richard Nixon has in a sense forced his opponents in Congress and in the press to come clean.

For months and months we have been listening to denunciations of the President over the Watergate affair. The Ervin committee has held its diurnal hearings. Sen Lowell Weicker and countless others have moralized and moralized. But the public soon began to sense something hollow about the whole affair, because nothing was actually going to happen.

If all the President's critics were to be taken at face value, Nixon should have been removed from office. Yet none, even those comparing him with Adolf Hitler, was saying quite that. Therefore, everyone sensed, it was something of a charade.

The question of whether a head of state is legitimate is of course a political rather than a legal question. Many a ruler has committed indictable crimes, and history is full of kings who came to power over the bodies of cousins or rivals, but then, by whatever legitimizing process they obtained, succeeded to full legitimacy. England might in fact want or need a Henry III, Florence a Borgia.

To say all this is not to concede that President Nixon has committed a single crime. It is to say, however, that his legitimacy is and always has been a political question.

Since the framers of the Constitution knew this too, they provided a political mechanism for affirming or denying such legitimacy: impeachment.

Now it will be noticed that impeachment is a two-edged weapon. Say, for example, that a motion to impeach is introduced in the House. If it then dies in committee, the public has a right to say: "The Watergate issue is dead." Not having put up, Nixon's opponents would have to shut up. The root question, of whether he could continue as President, would have been answered.

Or contemplate an even worse outcome from the standpoint of Nixon's enemies.

The bill to impeach actually comes to the floor of the House for a vote. Numerous speeches are made. The vote comes and 50 Congressmen vote to impeach. The move thus loses in a landslide. (And this, by the way, would be a vote on which abstention would be an intellectual impossibility.) Nixon's legitimacy would be dramatically reaffirmed. Again, having failed to put up, the critics would have to shut up.

Like any drama, the Watergate affair must have an ending, one way or another. Otherwise, it is unserious, mere sound and fury signifying nothing and going nowhere, Hamlet without the Fifth Act.

We now therefore are moving toward the final act of Watergate. The critics of the Administration have at last been forced to become serious.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk musings of a Pavement Plato:

So you are one among the half of the world's population who suffer from chronic boredom.

And you want to do something about it? Well, it isn't an easy problem to solve, but perhaps we can offer a few suggestions.

First, it is necessary to find out what is causing your boredom and, second, to consider means of getting rid of it.

Perhaps the culprit is your hobby. Oddly enough, the hobbies that people take up to add another interest to their lives often become a curse in time. I know of a fellow who took up stamp collecting for a hobby on the advice of his psychiatrist. Soon he hated stamps so much that he became bilious at the sight of a stamped envelope, and he had to retire from business.

Then he went to a chiropractor, who advised him to take up girl watching as a hobby, as it would provide good exercise for his arthritic neck. My friend did this and says he hasn't had a moment of boredom since, except during a few weekend blizzards when he wasn't able to leave the house.

Another common but unrecognized cause of boredom, particularly in America, is pseudo culture. We are bombarded to mental numbness by too many pompous after-dinner speakers, lecturers, and literary lions, confused by esoteric book critics, religious cultists, gurus, famous television personalities and professional athletic freaks.

Perhaps those feelings would go away if we spent more time sitting on park benches debating with the squirrels or pigeons or hanging around an old-fashioned pool hall listening to the snappy chatter of the dudes gathered there.

Marriage is blamed by some cowardly husbands for their boredom. I believe wives are the most interesting of all conversationalists. If a man is bored by a wife's conversation, I feel, he should get up and leave her and go home and listen to his own wife for a change. He might find her conversation far less boring. Anyway, he's always safer in his own home.

They could force Nixon from office; Congress could fail to vote or vote against impeachment, thus confirming Nixon. My own guess is that Nixon's latest series of moves will in the crunch show up the weakness of his opponents.

Finally, we come to the crux of the whole problem of boredom. This is that fact that most people are bored, not by other people or other things, but with themselves.

Yes, it is likely that you — bright, warm-hearted, intelligent, highly talented little old you — are the architect and chief source of your own boredom.

And if you are boring yourself, the chances are that you are boring most of those around you. Think that over.

Then do something. Anything that's a change. Have your face lifted, have your heart lifted, have your soul lifted. Change in bright ways. Be new to yourself, and you'll be new to others.

But, above all, get rid of selfpity. For it is the people who feel sorry for themselves who sit on the loneliest thrones in the kingdom of boredom.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., says the proposed Mine Health and Safety Academy at Beckley, W.Va., will require an additional $3 million for completion.

In a letter to Sen. Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Urinary infections are often difficult to track down. Infections in the kidney, the ureter, and the bladder are now more readily pinpointed because of a new enzyme that can be detected in the urine.

Dr. Larry H. Bernstein and his co-workers at the University of California, San Diego, School of Medicine, have been studying the enzyme, adenylate kinase. This enzyme is not present in the urine of healthy people.

Using this enzyme, these doctors believe it is possible to establish the exact part of the urinary tract affected by disease.

Another important by-product is that the presence of the enzyme may show early evidences of rejection when a kidney transplantation is performed.

The test, done in only a few minutes, may be a valuable asset to the tests now available.

The "Pap" test is acknowledged to be one of the most remarkable contributions of modern medicine.

Thousands of women with cancer of the cervix of the uterus are alive and are a testimonial to Doctor Papanicolaou, who first devised the "smear test" for early cancer of the cervix.

A new test for cancer of the cervix has recently been reported and developed by Dr. Laure Aurelian at the Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore.

Dr. Aurelian and her colleagues believe they have identified a special antibody that exists only in the blood of women with cancer of the cervix.

The work is proceeding actively, both in experimental animals and in humans. If proved successful, this may yet become a more rapid and definitive test for the earliest possible detection of cervical cancer.

Another significant phase of this work is that the antibody disappears when successful treatment of such cancers has been attained.

The test, therefore, would be vitally important in following the progress of the treatment of cancers of the cervix.

The detection of heroin users sometimes defies the efforts of those who try to uncover addiction.

It is well known that heroin addicts are remarkable ingenious in covering the tell-tale evidences of addiction.

Needle puncture wounds and track marks are cleverly covered with masking pastes and cosmetics.

A new test has been devised by Dr. David Sohn of the New York Medical College. The test is based on the fact that addicts who sniff heroin into the nose show evidence of the quinine normally used to dilute heroin.

A simple swab of the nose may reveal the presence of quinine. Quinine can also be detected in the urine of those who are suspected of being heroin users.

This test may be a valuable adjunct in recognizing heroin addiction in order to institute earlier and more effective treatment.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It was planned as a largely ceremonial affair by educators and industrialists to encourage donations to the nation's most prestigious private universities.

The institutions of business and education needed each other, it was said. And since big business had the money and the universities needed it badly, wasn't it logical that ideas and money should be exchanged?

Assembled at the University Club were leaders of some great American universities: Harvard, Chicago, Stanford, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cornell, the University of Pennsylvania.

Joining them were some elite of American industry, many of them members or sympathizers of the Committee for Corporate Support of American Universities. The luncheon would promote the need for contributions, which have fallen off.

The funds needed most, said a booklet planned but not yet published, were those that permitted the universities to establish their own priorities — unrestricted, discretionary funds, rather than those rigidly specified.

Featured speaker was David Packard, Stanford class of 1934, cofounder of the giant Hewlett-Packard scientific instruments company, former deputy defense secretary under President Nixon, former Stanford trustee, long-time friend of education.

"I recognize that for the university, unrestricted money is most valuable," he said after the prime steaks were consumed. "It does not necessarily follow, however, that unrestricted money, used as it has been used is always in the interest of the corporation."

Silence was deep as he explained that times have changed. Almost every college board today must have representatives of students, faculty, alumni, ethnic groups and the like, he said.

"Moreover, much of the power has gone to the faculty, and too often faculty decisions are determined by a militant minority of the faculty."

Because of this and other reasons, he said, "I believe the case for a corporation giving unrestricted funds to a private university can no longer be supported." Contributions should continue, he said, but with strings attached.

In a series of rhetorical questions he presented some reasons. "Is kicking ROTC programs off the campus the kind of leadership we need? Is prohibiting business from recruiting ... the kind of leadership we need?"

Some of the educators looked grim. Packard sounded bitter. "Should these universities serve as havens for radicals who want to destroy the free enterprise system? Should students be taught that American corporations are evil ...?"

Ceremony became controversy. Derek C. Bok, Harvard president, rose to defend the freedom a great university must preserve even, he said, at the cost of tolerating distasteful, unconstructive behavior.

"Understandably you should give in self-interest," he said, but he urged the executives to interpret self-interest broadly.

The great universities, he said, were a national asset. Their research and scholarship were basic to business and the economy, to the balance of payments, to the nation's competitive position, to health and welfare, to culture.

"The difference between vitality and stagnation in these leading centers of research is only a few million a year," he said. "But to let them stagnate may prove to be hundreds of times greater."

He concluded: "The country is challenged. It's vitality depends on this research. So, we ask you to appreciate the stage in society you have."

The more influential of the two views will be established by the flow of future contributions, but a costly legacy of bitterness remains from the days of campus turmoil. Contributions still aren't back to where they were five years ago.

Romans, Vandals, Goths, Byzantines, Lombards, Aragonese, Genoese, Moors and Barbary pirates all took part in ravaging, enslaving, taxing and hounding the Corsican people.

Bush Blasts Lack Of Decency

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Republican National Chairman George Bush says the nation is losing its sense of decency in overreacting to the turmoil surrounding the White House.

In a speech to Indiana Republicans at a $100-a-couple fund-raising dinner here Thursday night, Bush said publicly voiced questions by AFL-CIO president George Meany and others about President Nixon's emotional stability are "irresponsibility at its worst."

Bush said irresponsibility was "trumped" Thursday when Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was asked at a news conference if the worldwide alert of U.S. forces in the Mid ile East crisis might have been ordered to divert attention from Watergate.

Such a suggestion "demeans the presidency," Bush said. "Where are the fundamental standards of decency?"

He said the question reflected a lack of perspective about Watergate problems besetting the Nixon administration.

"There is an emotion in this country that needs to be calmed down, needs a little more maturity," the former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations said. "This isn't a time for irrational shouting ... This isn't a time for piling on."

Bush called Meany a "cranky, aged ... long-time Nixon biter" and added, "It's irrational to suggest that there's something wrong with the stability of the President."

He said Nixon is "stable and strong."

"I admit things have gone wrong," he added, "but to carry it to that extreme, it just seems to me we must stand up and speak out against that kind of thing."

Glaucoma Program To Be Discussed Monday Night

Scott Donaldson, program consultant for the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness, will meet with volunteers from the Circleville area, Monday at the Lutheran Parish House at 7 p.m., to discuss plans for a glaucoma screening for area residents.

The Professional Advisory Committee, chaired by Vera Saunders, Information and Referral Aide for the Pickaway County Senior Center, will formulate final details for the screening program, with the help of Dr. N. K. Parikh, Circleville and Chillicothe ophtalmologist.

Glaucoma is an eye disease which most often strikes those over 35 years old, says the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness, and if left untreated, causes blindness. The screening will detect early signs of the disease while it can still be treated.

Exact location and dates for the glaucoma screening will be set by the Professional Advisory Committee at the meeting.

Local Grangers Attend State Conference

Pickaway County Grangers were well represented at the 101st session of the Ohio State Grange held this week in Dayton.

The meeting was held at the Sheraton-Dayton Hotel with approximately 800 grangers in attendance during the four day convention.

Barbara Bolender represented the Pickaway County Youth Organization at the Prince and Princess Pageant, and her sister Bonnie was a member of the Ohio State Youth Committee. The girls are members of the Washington Grange.

The local grange youth group received the first place award in the youth scrapbook contest which was held for the first time by the youth department. The entry was judged the best of the eight books in the state contest.

Other local grangers attending the meeting were Barbara McKenzie, Joan Dawson, Paul Dunkle, John Dowler, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bumgarner, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bidwell. Attending the Monday evening pageant were Mr. and Mrs. David Bolender.

Mrs. Jean Crites, a member of Nebraska Grange, received a second place on her oil in the state competition.

School Districts Get $42.49 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A net total of $42.49 million was paid in October to 615 Ohio city, village and local school districts, Ohio State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said today.

The State School Foundation's gross October subsidy payment was $61.26 million, the auditor's office said, but was reduced by direct payments to retirement funds and county school boards.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM ALLEN BENNETT

Wedding Vows Are Exchanged In Trinity Lutheran Church

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Hyacinth Diane Dearth and Mr. William Allen Bennett 7:30 p.m., Sept. 9th in Trinity Lutheran Church of Circleville.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W.R. Dearth Sr., Route 2, Circleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertus C. Bennett, 580 Springhollow Road, Circleville.

Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Frank, of Cincinnati, vocalists, presented a program of music preceding the ceremony. Vocal selections included: "Because," "The Wedding Benediction," "One Hand, One Heart," "Whither Thou Goest," "Wedding Song," and "The Lord's Prayer," which was sung during the ceremony while the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride was escorted by her father down the aisle past pews adorned with white satin bows. The bride wore a gown of chantilly lace designed with a sweetheart neckline and cap sleeves embroidered in seed pearls. The bouffant skirt fell into a chapel length train over a hooped skirt. A princess crown of pearls and iridescent crystals held her double veil of French illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations, pink roses, baby's breath, with ivy foliage and white satin streamers. Her ensemble was completed by a Lindy star sapphire necklace and charm bracelet with a single wedding charm, both gifts of the groom.

Mrs. Carroll L. Cook of Circleville served her sister as matron of honor. She wore a floor length, ruffled belle gown or flowered flocked voile over hot pink taffeta fashioned with long full sleeves and a hot pink straw picture hat. She carried a bouquet of lavender and white asters with pink carnations, and ivy with pink streamers.

Mrs. John A. Cook and Miss Sue Ann Bennett, sister of the groom were bridesmaids. Their gowns of flowered flocked voile over lavender taffeta, lavender straw picture hats and bouquets were identical to that of the honor attendant. All the girls wore lockets, gifts from the bride.

Mr. Gary J. Hoffman of Chillicothe performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Lee Cook and Mr. Bruce F. Cook with Mr. John A. Cook and Mr. J. Bruce Bell serving as groomsmen.

The bride's mother was attired in a sleeveless floor length gown of turquoise polyester with a V-neck, accented with silver trim and silver asseccories.

Mrs. Bennett's floor length gown was of turquoise and silk organza, with an empire bodice, accented in front with a silk turquoise bow. The long full sleeves were gathered at the wrist with wide cuffs. Her accessories were white. Both members wore corsages of white gardenias with silver ribbon.

Lavender illusion net overlay was on the white cloth covering of the bride's table for the reception held in the Parish House. Silver candelabra adorned the table centered by a four tiered wedding cake decorated with lavender and pink roses and topped with bride and groom figurines.

Reception hostesses were, Mrs. C. Dwight Rector, Mrs. Stephen E. Davis and Miss Becky Liston. Mrs. Carl B. Jenkins presided at the guest book.

For a honeymoon trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania and New York City, the bride wore a jacket and dress ensemble of polyester knit with a white turtle neck bodice and turquoise pleated skirt with a long sleeve checked jacket. A white gardenia corsage completed the outfit.

The bride is a graduate of McArthur High School, Hollywood, Fla. and is employed by The Second National Bank of Circleville. Mr. Bennett graduated from Circleville High School and attended Ohio University, Athens. He is employed in the treasurer's office of BancOhio Corp., Columbus. The couple now resides at 134 Pleasant St., Circleville.

Guests were from Columbus, Chillicothe, Cincinnati, Canton, Williamsport, Kingston, Ohio and Demotte, Ind. A special guest at the wedding was the bridegroom's grandmother Mrs. Chester C. Wolfe.

The groom's parents entertained the wedding party and their guests with a rehearsal dinner at Wardell's Party Home.

Prior to the wedding the bride was honored by showers hosted by Mrs. Lawrence Griffith and Mrs. Eleanor Catchpole of Columbus, Mrs. C. Dwight Rector, Miss Sue Ann Bennett, and Mrs. Samuel F. Dearth, Mrs. Robert Young and Mrs. William Hildenbrand.

McFarland Reunion Hosted By Driscoll Family Of Sabina

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Driscoll of Sabina hosted the McFarland reunion at their home recently.

Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Clark K. McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Savage and Jodi, Mr. and Mrs. Louis McFarland and Audy, Mr. and Mrs. Glen McFarland, Larry, Nancy, Butch and Cindy.

Debbie Hanning, John Selin, Linda Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt, John McFarland, Bruce and Barry; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall McFarland and grandsons, Marshall, Jay and Jim Curry, all of Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. C.K. McFarland, C.K. III and Toni Sue, Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell McFarland, New Holland; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, Amy Sue, Cathy Lynn and Shane, Mt. Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. I.N. McFarland Jr. and Dennis, London; Mr. and Mrs. I.N. McFarland III and twin sons, Shad and Shannon, and Miss Thelma McFarland, Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. Ron McFarland and Mr. and Mrs. Rick McFarland, Cambridge.

Mrs. Gladys Brumfield and Mrs. Harold Venrick and Cathy, Springfield; Mrs. Bertha Driscoll, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jenkins, Sabina and the hosts and their son Kenny.

The afternoon was spent visiting and conducting games for the children.

Steve Jones Guest Speaker For Circleville Chapter AAUW

Guest speaker for the Tuesday evening meeting of Circleville Branch American Assn. of University Women was Steve Jones, editor of The Circleville Herald.

Mr. Jones, a native of Circleville, attended the University of Missouri and the Ohio State University. He has been a member of the editorial staff of The Herald for 12 years and its editor for the past three. He spoke of the responsibilities and problems in editing a newspaper.

He said The Herald is a member of the Galvin chain of six newspapers and receives some articles from King Features Syndicate. National, state and world news is edited in Washington C. H. and sent by teletype to Circleville. The Herald is basically an independent newspaper whose motto is "Print Anything That Fits" compared to the motto of the New York Times "Print Anything That's Fit To Print."

He listed several things he believes in as an editor: freedom of the press is a public trust, always strive for accuracy and clearness, don't suppress news for the welfare of the public and always print what is in its best interest.

Mr. Jones concluded his talk by reading an article on how to read a newspaper. He then answered questions from members.

During the business meeting, Jean Drost, president, announced the national AAUW is supporting the Equal Rights Amendment and asked anyone interested in working to contact her.

Also discussed was the RIF program and members were asked to support it. Several organizations have already given donations but more is needed if the program is to be carried on this year.

A short film of Stage's Pond was shown. Mrs. Emmett Barnhart and Miss Miriam Weaver discussed the progress of efforts to buy this land as a nature preserve. The committee is still accepting contributions for the project.

New members of AAUW are: Mrs. Harry Hoffer, Dr. Louise Warner, Mrs. John Replogle, Mrs. Michael Kirk and Mrs. Steve Jarvis.

Chairman of the hostess committee for the meeting in the Museum of Pickaway County Historical Society was Mrs. Robert Scherer. Other members were: Mrs. David Case, Mrs. Neil Hamilton, Miss Thelma O'Hara, Mrs. William Rickey, Mrs. William Grooms, Mrs. Dan Collins, Mrs. Winship Story, Miss Kerrylin Hopewell and Mrs. Donald Partee.

Garden Club Council Plans Fall Meeting

Callas Sings In Comeback Try

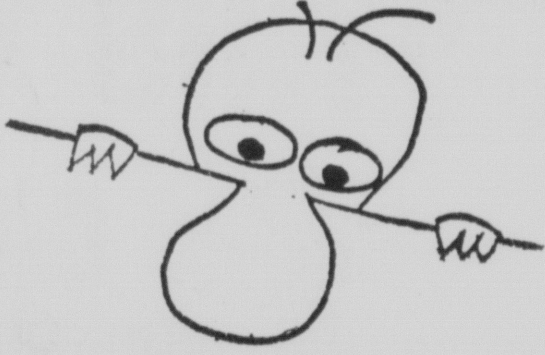

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Soprano Maria Callas received a 35-minute ovation at the end of her first concert in eight years.

However, critics said privately her performance here Thursday was disappointing. One observer said the singer had lost both her trill and the gloss in her voice.

She sang mostly duets with Italian tenor Giuseppe di Stefano for an audience of 3,000 at Hamburg's concert center.

Callas Sings In Comeback Try

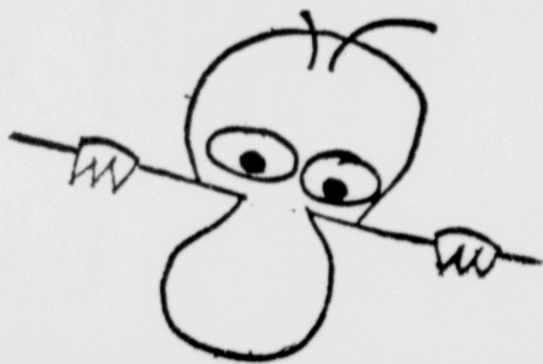

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Soprano Maria Callas received a 35-minute ovation at the end of her first concert in eight years.

However, critics said privately her performance here Thursday was disappointing. One observer said the singer had lost both her trill and the gloss in her voice.

She sang mostly duets with Italian tenor Giuseppe di Stefano for an audience of 3,000 at Hamburg's concert center.

Area Schools Get October Allocations

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced today a net total of $42,489,821.84 was allocated in October to Ohio's 615 school systems.

Of that total, $171,668.07 was allocated to the city and local school districts of Pickaway County.

Circleville City Schools received $60,057.37; Teays Valley, $43,496.81; Logan Elm, $30,300.96; Westfall, $34,570.11. A direct allocation in the amount of $13,242.82 was made to the county board.

Book Hangs In The Balance

OMIHACHIMAN, Japan (AP) — A 48-year-old man convicted of murder spent 13 years on death row transcribing 850 books into braille for the blind.

He was hanged before finishing Feodor Dostoyevsky's "Crime and Punishment."

Influence Peddling By Butz Claimed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Star-News, quoting informed sources, reported today that Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz is being investigated in connection with an alleged attempt to influence a Federal Trade Commission probe for political purposes.

The Department of Agriculture said Butz was not available immediately for comment. The Department said he was in San Francisco for a speech.

The Star-News, in a story by Barry Kalb, said the Butz investigation revolves around the 1969 acquisition by Heublein, Inc., of a California wine growers cooperative known as United Vintners, Inc.

Heublein is one of the nation's largest purveyors of alcoholic beverages. United is the second largest California wine producer and markets Italian Swiss Colony and Inglenook wines among others.

In the spring of 1972, the FTC's Bureau of Competition suggested to the five commissioners that the acquisition constituted an illegal restraint of trade and should be formally challenged, the Star-News said.

Before the commissioners could act, the newspaper said, Butz personally requested a meeting with then-FTC Chairman Miles Kirkpatrick and asked him to delay the challenge until after the presidential election, saying that California was a critical state and implying the challenge would hurt President Nixon's re-election efforts there.

The newspaper said it understood Kirkpatrick was furious at the suggestion. It said the only action Kirkpatrick took subsequently was to verify that the recommendation to challenge the acquisition was on solid grounds and then to present the proposed challenge to the commissioners and vote for it himself.

Kirkpatrick could not be reached for comment, but the Star-News quoted him as saying "there was nothing improper at all about the meeting as such." Beyond that, the newspaper said, Kirkpatrick refused to discuss details of the matter or characterize Butz's proposal in any way.

Federal law makes it a crime to attempt, for improper reasons, to "influence, obstruct or impede" a lawful investigation by a federal department or agency.

The Star-News said the matter was referred to the office of then special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox and the investigation is continuing despite Cox's firing last week.

The FTC challenge of the acquisition suggested that Heublein be required to divest itself of its 82 per cent interest in United. The challenge currently is being litigated by the FTC's office in San Francisco.

Fire Chief Advises Winter Safety

Circleville Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe advises that it's time to make sure your home heating equipment will operate safely and trouble-free this winter. Far too many unnecessary deaths occur each season due to faulty appliances and heating equipment.

Fatal carbon monoxide gas is produced when combustion takes place without sufficient oxygen. This gas is colorless, odorless and has often been referred to as the "Silent killer." Sometimes headaches and dizziness are the only symptoms.

Any do-it-yourself jobs should be inspected by a qualified serviceman. It will save money in the long run not only on fuel bills but also in the satisfaction of the family's safety.

When inspecting your present heating equipment, Chief Wolfe advises (1.) see that heating equipment is vented to a good chimney (2.) make sure that the chimney is clean and draws well (3.) be sure the pipe goes up hill from heating equipment to chimney (4.) use a safety thimble to keep the vent pipe from going too far into the chimney and seal the thimble into the chimney with cement. (5.) be sure the chimney has a cleanout opening under the vent pipe and be sure the opening is covered with a cap. (6.) allow some outside fresh air into the space where the heating equipment is located.

Another list of don'ts are just as important: (1.) don't put a damper in the vent pipe (2.) don't try to get more heat out of the system that it is built to produce. (3.) don't seal furnace room windows and doors with tape and rags (4.) don't waste a second in getting everyone out of the house if you smell fumes or awaken with a headache and suspect faulty heating equipment (5.) don't put off calling a serviceman if your system isn't working properly (6.) don't use your cooking range for heating.

Allen Case Stars At Playhouse

LEADING ROLE—Allen Case of film, stage and TV's "The Deputy" fame will appear in "The Ninety Day Mistress" opening Tuesday at the Country Dinner Playhouse near Reynoldsburg. The Playhouse is the only professional dinner theatre in central Ohio.

"The Ninety Day Mistress" starring television and stage personality Allen Case will open Tuesday at the Country Dinner Playhouse. The playhouse offers a cosmopolitan atmosphere with its relaxed cocktail hour from 6 to 7 p.m. followed by luscious buffet supper and the playbill of the night starting at 8:30.

This offering on schedule now is "The Ninety Day Mistress" by J. J. Coyle starring Allen Case, Kathleen O'Mera Noone, Paul Larson, Thomas Brennum, Peggy Cate, Camilla Carr and Thom Koutsoukos.

The plot includes a private detective hired by the father of a girl with strange nocturnal activities. The comedy develops as the girl runs her love life on a business-like basis.

Evening performances are Tuesday through Sunday at 8:30 p.m. Matinees are offered on Wednesday and Sunday with buffet luncheon at 12:30. The Country Dinner Playhouse, 11500 Tussing Road, near Reynoldsburg, is billed as the only professional dinner theatre in Central Ohio.

No Impeachment Seen By Julie

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is a man who "rolls with the punches," and will neither resign or be impeached, says one of his two daughters, Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

"I think sometimes he really likes a challenge. It's kind of a gauntlet thrown down you have got to pick up," she said on a local television show Thursday.

She said she didn't think impeachment would even go to a vote in Congress because, "I just believe that the majority of congressmen and senators want what's best for the country ... The majority really do want to work with the President."

Harassing Calls Bring Arrest

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—The FBI said 40-year-old Jeremiah Vuletic of Smiths Ferry, Pa., was arrested here Friday and charged with making harassing phone calls to a woman in Wellsville.

The FBI said Vuletic was arrested on warrants issued by a federal magistrate in Youngstown. The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. said it participated in the investigation.

The FBI said the calls began in January and ran up to 35 calls a day. A spokesman said the caller usually hung up when the woman answered her phone.

EMERGENCY UNITS—Harrison Township's Emergency Medical Units have responded to 100 emergencies since going into service June 25.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Mate Can Learn

DEAR ABBY: It might do your correspondent whose husband wants no bodily contact except sex good to know that there are others with the same problem.

I have a husband who wants no bodily contact outside sex. Even kisses are few and far between. If I sit too close to him in the car, I get an elbow in the ribs. If I get too close to him in bed, I get a sharp nudge and an admonition to move over! He has a healthy appetite for sex, however, although he is completely lacking in the tenderness that turns a woman on.

After years of brooding and studying, I found an explanation for his hangup. (Explanations don't solve problems, but they do help you to be more patient and understanding.)

My husband was an unwanted baby, and his mother let him know this from the start. He had very little cuddling and fondling at home. He has never learned how to accept physical love because he has never had any, and consequently, he does not know how to give any.

For years, I felt I was unattractive and unlovable. Now I know it's not something in me ... it's something lacking in him. Knowing this takes the sting out of it.

RESIGNED

DEAR RESIGNED: Your husband's lack of tenderness, which is simply his reluctance to learn how to please his partner, was learned, and that which was learned can be unlearned. Don't "resign" yourself in a martyred manner. Talk turkey to your man. He is capable of understanding a few explanations, too.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I called on a thriving trucking company, whose business it is to ship. I was asked to wait a few minutes as the owner was busy on a long distance call.

While I waited, the receptionist, a very attractive young woman, constantly cracked her chewing gum. The waiting time grew longer, and the noise of that gum cracking became more and more irritating.

Finally, my nerves couldn't take it any more, so I told the receptionist I would come back later, and I left.

I located another hauler—one whose receptionist did not chew gum!

I wonder what the owner of that first truck line would say if he knew that his receptionist's gum-chewing was responsible for his having lost a good account?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: He probably would have chewed her out-but good!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old woman with children away at boarding schools. My husband and I are divorced, but we haven't told our children about it for fear they may hate us for life.

The children go to school in Ohio. I live in North Carolina, and my husband lives in California. Whenever the kids come home, he flies down here and brings enough of his clothes with him to make them think he is still living here with me. He is complaining that it is getting to be a terrible expense, and if I am going to continue this pretense I will have to start paying for his transportation.

I am only a part-time cocktail waitress and make just enough to live in comfort. My husband is paying for the children's education. Please, help me.

T. IN N.C.

DEAR T.: Put an end to the ridiculous charade and tell your children that Daddy doesn't live there anymore. They'll survive.

Harrison Volunteer Medical Unit Responds To 100 Calls

The Harrison Twp. Volunteer Fire Department began Emergency Medical Service in Harrison, Madison and Walnut Twps. June 25 of this year.

Since then, the Ashville based department has answered 100 emergency calls, an average of almost one per day, far surpassing the projected estimate.

The calls have ranged from traffic accidents, heart attack and stroke, to overdoses of drugs and medicine.

The emergency squad and heavy rescue unit are manned by 23 firemen, all of whom have been trained and certified in the Ohio State 60-hour Emergency Medical Course. The squad is capable of transporting three stretcher cases and is manned at all times by three squadmen. The rescue truck carries jacks and shoring, ring saw, five ton winch, medical bag and had fire fighting capabilities. Both units respond on all traffic crashes or situations where the victim may be trapped.

The rescue unit acts as a backup squad when the emergency vehicle is on a run. The local department has mutual aid agreements with all surrounding squads in the event of a multiple victim situation.

Harrison Twp. Fire Department receives all fire and emergency calls from the Pickaway County Sheriff's office by radio signal. Anyone in Madison, Walnut or Harrison Townships needing its service should call the sheriff's office, 474-2176 and report the location and the nature of the emergency. Both services are provided by tax levies in each township and are free to all residents.

Erie County Land Open For Hunting

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — About 310 acres of school land in Erie County will be opened for the first time to hunting, fishing and trapping under an agreement signed today, Deputy State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson announced.

In a Sandusky news conference, Ferguson said the land along the south shore of Sandusky Bay will be open under a "land use agreement" between the auditor's office and the Ohio Natural Resources Department.

No Impeachment Seen By Julie

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is a man who "rolls with the punches," and will neither resign or be impeached, says one of his two daughters, Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

"I think sometimes he really likes a challenge. It's kind of a gauntlet thrown down you have got to pick up," she said on a local television show Thursday.

She said she didn't think impeachment would even go to a vote in Congress because, "I just believe that the majority of congressmen and senators want what's best for the country ... The majority really do want to work with the President."

Harassing Calls Bring Arrest

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—The FBI said 40-year-old Jeremiah Vuletic of Smiths Ferry, Pa., was arrested here Friday and charged with making harassing phone calls to a woman in Wellsville.

The FBI said Vuletic was arrested on warrants issued by a federal magistrate in Youngstown. The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. said it participated in the investigation.

The FBI said the calls began in January and ran up to 35 calls a day. A spokesman said the caller usually hung up when the woman answered her phone.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Mate Can Learn

DEAR ABBY: It might do your correspondent whose husband wants no bodily contact except sex good to know that there are others with the same problem.

I have a husband who wants no bodily contact outside sex. Even kisses are few and far between. If I sit too close to him in the car, I get an elbow in the ribs. If I get too close to him in bed, I get a sharp nudge and an admonition to move over! He has a healthy appetite for sex, however, although he is completely lacking in the tenderness that turns a woman on.

After years of brooding and studying, I found an explanation for his hangup. (Explanations don't solve problems, but they do help you to be more patient and understanding.)

My husband was an unwanted baby, and his mother let him know this from the start. He had very little cuddling and fondling at home. He has never learned how to accept physical love because he has never had any, and consequently, he does not know how to give any.

For years, I felt I was unattractive and unlovable. Now I know it's not something in me . . . it's something lacking in him. Knowing this takes the sting out of it.

RESIGNED

DEAR RESIGNED: Your husband's lack of tenderness, which is simply his reluctance to learn how to please his partner, was learned, and that which was learned can be unlearned. Don't "resign" yourself in a martyred manner. Talk turkey to your man. He is capable of understanding a few explanations, too.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I called on a thriving trucking company, whose business it is to ship. I was asked to wait a few minutes as the owner was busy on a long distance call.

While I waited, the receptionist, a very attractive young woman, constantly cracked her chewing gum. The waiting time grew longer, and the noise of that gum cracking became more and more irritating.

Finally, my nerves couldn't take it any more, so I told the receptionist I would come back later, and I left.

I located another hauler-one whose receptionist did not chew gum!

I wonder what the owner of that first truck line would say if he knew that his receptionist's gum-chewing was responsible for his having lost a good account?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: He probably would have chewed her out-but good!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old woman with children away at boarding schools. My husband and I are divorced, but we haven't told our children about it for fear they may hate us for life.

The children go to school in Ohio. I live in North Carolina, and my husband lives in California. Whenever the kids come home, he flies down here and brings enough of his clothes with him to make them think he is still living here with me. He is complaining that it is getting to be a terrible expense, and if I am going to continue this pretense I will have to start paying for his transportation.

I am only a part-time cocktail waitress and make just enough to live in comfort. My husband is paying for the children's education. Please, help me.

T. INN.C.

DEAR T.: Put an end to the ridiculous charade and tell your children that Daddy doesn't live there anymore. They'll survive.

Harrison Volunteer Medical Unit Responds To 100 Calls

The Harrison Twp. Volunteer Fire Department began Emergency Medical Service in Harrison, Madison and Walnut Twps. June 25 of this year.

Since then, the Ashville based department has answered 100 emergency calls, an average of almost one per day, far surpassing the projected estimate.

The calls have ranged from traffic accidents, heart attack and stroke, to overdoses of drugs and medicine.

The emergency squad and heavy rescue unit are manned by 23 firemen, all of whom have been trained and certified in the Ohio State 60-hour Emergency Medical Course. The squad is capable of transporting three stretcher cases and is manned at all times by three squadmen. The rescue truck carries jacks and shoring, ring saw, five ton winch, medical bag and had fire fighting capabilities. Both units respond on all traffic crashes or situations where the victim may be trapped.

The rescue unit acts as a backup squad when the emergency vehicle is on a run. The local department has mutual aid agreements with all surrounding squads in the event of a multiple victim situation.

Harrison Twp. Fire Department receives all fire and emergency calls from the Pickaway County Sheriff's office by radio signal. Anyone in Madison, Walnut or Harrison Townships needing its service should call the sheriff's office, 474-2176 and report the location and the nature of the emergency. Both services are provided by tax levies in each township and are free to all residents.

Erie County Land Open For Hunting

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — About 310 acres of school land in Erie County will be opened for the first time to hunting, fishing and trapping under an agreement signed today, Deputy State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson announced.

In a Sandusky news conference, Ferguson said the land along the south shore of Sandusky Bay will be open under a "land use agreement" between the auditor's office and the Ohio Natural Resources Department.

LE Board Discusses Levy With Saltcreek Citizens

The Logan Elm Board of Education held the third of a series of discussion meetings at Saltcreek Township School, Thursday evening. The purpose of the meeting was to promote successful passage of the school operating levy.

The most commonly asked questions about the school operating levy are: Q—If the levy passes can we expect additional teachers to be hired after the first of the year, thus eliminating split classes, the lack of music and art instructors, etc?

A—The Board of Education, while always conscious of savings where ever they can be made, was most reluctant to eliminate, postpone or make any curtailments in the school program which strongly affected the quality of the education being provided the children of our district.

Pickaway County Labor Force Numbers 14,825

The Pickaway County civilian labor force, based on place of work, numbered around 14,825 persons in July according to a report from the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

Of this estimate, 14,350 were employed and 475 (including 300 women) were jobless. The unemployment rate

If the levy passes the present board plans to re-employ teachers, thus eliminating the split classes as soon as possible. Art, music and additional teachers will be re-employed no later than the school year beginning September, 1974.

Q—What does it cost to bus each student to school?

A—The average cost of transportation in the 1972-73 year was $59.13 per student.

Q—How many school buses does our district own and what does it cost per year to run them?

A—Our district owns 29 buses. The total cost for pupil transportation in the Logan Elm School District for the 1972-73 fiscal year was $126,008.19. In the fiscal year 72-73 the buses traveled 374,821.8 miles.

The total operating expense of running these buses, including maintenance costs, fuel, tires and tubes, and liability insurance was $45,255.62. In addition to this figure, salaries and related costs, (retirement, insurance, etc.) amounted to $80,752.57.

Q—Aren't we in need of some new school buses?

A—Yes, we certainly are, but for obvious reasons we are unable to purchase them. School buses should be used only as long as they are in a safe condition, usually eight to ten years according to the State Department of Transportation. We have 3 buses over 10 years old.

Q—How do Logan Elm beginning teachers' salaries compare with other Pickaway County schools?

A—Of the four schools in Pickaway County, Logan Elm's salary schedule is one of the lowest.

Q—Are all teachers in the Logan Elm district paid the same rate of compensation?

A—Yes, each board of education must adopt annually a salary schedule based upon training and years of service which must be filed with the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The final meeting in this series will be held at Laurelville at 8 p.m. Monday.

Call the Superintendent's office if you have further questions at 474-8324.

Man Arrested For 1965 Blaze

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Suburban Brecksville police say they are holding a 48-year-old Lakewood man in connection with a fire that destroyed the Brecksville United Church of Christ eight years ago.

Police said the man told them Friday night that he and two companions set the fire in November 1965 as a diversion while they broke into two clothing stores in another section of the suburb.

Police said damage in the church fire was set at the time as $200,000.

Emergency Medical Bill Nearly Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is close to finishing work on a $185-million emergency medical care bill stripped of a hospital-saving section that helped prompt President Nixon to veto an earlier version.

The 364-18 vote by which the House passed the new measure Thursday "indicates that it has bipartisan support and that we'll have no problem at the White House," said Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the House public health subcommittee and chief author of the bill.

The Senate has passed a similar measure. Although the House made some minor amendments dealing with rural programs, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, said he looks for the Senate to accept the bill as passed by the House.

This would avoid the need for forming a Senate-House conference committee, and would speed the bill on its way to Nixon.

The legislation authorizes a three-year funding for a new program designed to help communities set up comprehensive and improved emergency medical care, such as a system of ambulances, emergency rooms and properly trained people. The aim is to prevent needless deaths of heart attack and accident victims.

Earlier this year, Nixon vetoed similar legislation that also carried a requirement that the administration keep operating Public Health Service hospitals in Seattle, Boston, Baltimore, San Francisco, New Orleans, Galveston, Tex., Staten Island, N.Y., and Norfolk, Va. Nixon complained some of the facilities had outlived their usefulness.

The hospital provision was deleted from the bill's latest version.

stood at 3.2 per cent of the workforce.

The local office of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services is located on the second floor of Memorial Hall, 165 E. Main St. The BEC maintains hours of noon to 4 p.m. each Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Joe Zaig is the office manager. The telephone number is 474-1451.

According to the 1970 census, approximately one-third of the country's resident jobholders commented to work elsewhere—most of these traveled to Franklin County.

During July about one-third of all persons working in the county (whether living here or not) held jobs in manufacturing establishments, one-fifth were government workers, one-eighth were engaged in agricultural activities.

The hourly wage rates offered by Pickaway County employers currently fall within the following limits: Unskilled, $2.20 to $2.75; semiskilled, $2.35 to $3.25; skilled, $3.25 to $4.05. In recent years, average weekly earnings of county works covered by the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Law have been slightly below the average for the state.

Bank Announces Third Quarter Income, Assets

Theodore R. Saker, president of American Bancorporation, a Columbus-based bank holding company with affiliates in six Ohio counties, has announced third-quarter consolidated figures for 1973.

Total assets as of September 30, 1973, were $47.8 million, up 90.2 per cent over last year's third-quarter assets, and 45.7 per cent over assets recorded for year-end 1972.

The company reported substantial gains in net income and operating income over last year for the same period. Earnings of 29 cents for the first nine months of 1973 were equal to earnings per share for the entire 1972 calendar year. Consolidated net income was recorded at $189,423, an increase of 54.5 per cent over the same period last year. Operating income was reported at $257,131, or 150.7 per cent over the 1972 figure.

Affiliations now pending before regulatory authorities are The American Bank of Central Ohio, Franklin and Pickaway Counties, and The Morristown Bank, Belmont County. When approved, these affiliations with American Bancorporation will bring holding company assets to approximately $80 million.

American Bancorporation affiliates include: The Ross County National Bank, Ross County; The Harpster Bank, Wyandot County; The Huntsville State Bank, Logan County; The Dime Bank, Washington County; The Farmers State Bank of McClure, Henry County; and The Continental Bank, Putnam County.

CHS Tigers Stand Tall In Loss To Blue Lions

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

It was an aroused bunch of Circleville Tigers that met visiting Washington C. H. head-on and gave the Lions the battle of their lives before dropping a 20-7 decision to the No. 1 state ranked team Friday night before a large band-parents-night crowd.

Not only did the Tigers send the Blue Lions home knowing they had been in a ball game but they put points on the scoreboard for the first time this season against the big Fayette County boys.

The young Tigers gave up a lot of physical size to Washington C.H. but when it came to heart the nod had to go to the Roundtowners. They challenged and charged the powerful Lions and walked off the field with their heads held high at the end of the battle.

Both teams came to play and play they did. The Lions brought a fine football team to Roundtown and the Tigers rose to the occasion in a game that left players, coaches and fans limp and exhausted but pleased with what they had seen.

Chuck Wilson, the powerful Lion tailback, tallied twice and carried over on a conversion as he put on a great display of carrying the football. He was the workhorse as he carried 35 times and battered and bashed his way for 176 yards to pace the Lions' attack.

Alan Coppock did a fine job of directing the Lions with his running and passing and powered his way into paydirt for a Washington touchdown.

It was Eddy Richter who galloped around left end to cap a 53-yard drive and break the scoreless string of the Lions.

"I don't believe that I've ever been prouder of a bunch of kids in my life," Circleville coach Larry Cook said. "They took on a fine football team and battled them right down to the wire."

"Our kids were handed what is probably the biggest challenge in their athletic career and met it in every way. Our defense stayed right in the game and really hit and our offensive line blocking and the running of our backs enabled us to stay with our game plan all the way," Cook commented.

"The kids believed in themselves and it showed up on the field. They did what no one else had been able to do—score on Washington C. H.—and I just can't say enough about their performance tonight," Cook stated.

Even though the Tigers trailed 14-0 at halftime, they never lost their poise and kept scrapping to get back into the ball game—which they did.

It was an elastic defense of the Tigers that stretched a little around mid-field but got as mean as a big Irish cop walking his beat with a pair of sore feet when the Lions got into money territory. Twice the Tigers bared their claws, got the fur up on their backs and stopped Washington drives inside the 15-yard line.

Richter, Pat McNaughton, Jim Cordle, Tim McNaughton, Dale Imler, Alan Underwood and Keith Davis led a Tiger defense that would put Teddy Roosevelt's charge up San Juan hill to shame.

But it was an overall team effort, both offensively and defensively, that turned the game into the Tigers finest effort of the season.

It was a tough struggle between two good football teams and both squads knew they had been in a real donnybrook when the final gun sounded.

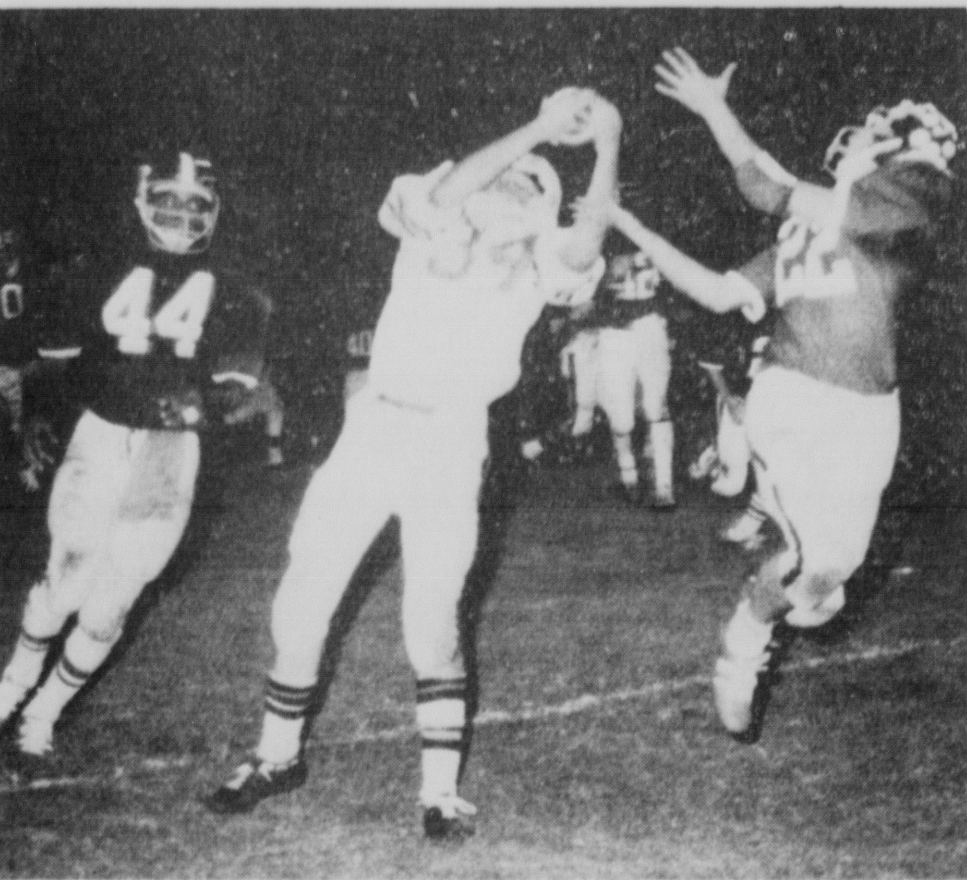

SLICK RICK — Circleville's Rick Sampson 21 is pulled down by a Washington C. H. defender after picking up seven tough yards to keep a Tiger drive alive. Other identifiable Tigers in the picture are Doug Palm 87 and Scott Bowman 77. The Red and Black gridders gave the No. 1 rated Blue Lions all the football they wanted and ended the scoreless streak of the boys from Fayette County. Washington C. H. edged the Tigers, 20-7, before a large crowd at the Roundtown field.

Both teams knew that they had been in a ball game and the fans knew they had seen one.

Circleville is now 2-3 in the South Central Ohio League and 3-5 overall. The Tigers will travel to Hillsboro Friday night in another SCOL encounter.

ON THE MONEY — Pat McNaughton 34 gathers in a perfect throw from Perry Hoskins. It was a great catch by McNaughton who beat Washington's Chuck Wilson 44 and Mark Johnson 22 to keep the Tiger touchdown drive alive. The play covered 30 yards and moved the ball deep into Blue Lion territory.

Braves Shutout By Liberty Union

Logan Elm Braves were defeated by their hosts Liberty Union Lions 19-0 Friday in Mid State League. The loss leaves the Braves with a 2-5 league record and a 2-6 overall mark.

Liberty Union is 3-3-1 in the league and 3-4-1 overall.

The Lions scored with 4:06 to go in the second quarter when quarterback Rick Underwood scored from one yard out, capping an 80-yard drive.

Just before halftime, the Braves fumbled a punt deep in their own territory and it was recovered by Liberty Union at the 25.

The first play by the Lions was an 18-yard pass from Underwood to end Harold Standford. The second play was a six yard run by halfback Dave Ansel and the final play a one yard plunge for the TD by Chuck Reedy. There was just six seconds to go til halftime when Reedy crossed the goal line. Both times the try for the extra point was no good and the score stood at 12-0 at halftime.

In the second half Rob Fellure intercepted a Logan Elm pass at the 40 and ran it back to the four. From there, Reedy carried for three yards and Underwood scored the touchdown. Rod Gregory kicked the extra point.

In the fourth period, Stew Jones recovered a fumble for the Braves at the Lions 27-yard line. L.E. lost the ball on a fumble just short of the goal line four plays later and the Lions recovered the ball in the endzone. It was the best scoring opportunity the Braves had.

For the Braves, Ramey was the leading groundgainer picking up 64 yards. Wayne Linthicum gained 36 and Steve Rawlins 23. Sargent was on target five of 17 passes for 59 yards and had two intercepted.

Bench To Head Yule Seal Drive

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench has been named to head the annual Christmas Seal Campaign, the South-western Ohio Lung Association said Friday.

Bench, who underwent surgery for a benign lesion of the lung last December, will assist in fund-raising to fight emphysema, asthma, tuberculosis and air pollution.

SLICK RICK — Circleville's Rick Sampsil 21 is pulled down by a Washington C. H. defender after picking up seven tough yards to keep a Tiger drive alive. Other identifiable Tigers in the picture are Doug Palm 87 and Scott Bowman 77. The Red and Black gridders gave the No. 1 rated Blue Lions all the football they wanted and ended the scoreless streak of the boys from Fayette County. Washington C. H. edged the Tigers, 20-7, before a large crowd at the Roundtown field.

On their first series of the game the Lions showed why they are rated as a strong football team. They drove from their own 18-yard line to the Tiger 15 in 12 plays with Wilson doing heavy duty.

But the Tigers got their backs up and on fourth down and three Richter and Rock Davis stopped Wilson short of the first down and the Tigers took over.

With two minutes left in the first quarter, the Lions were on the move again and this time they were not to be denied. They rolled to the Tiger nine as the quarter ended and on the third play of the second period Coppock bulled his way into paydirt from the one-yard line to cap a 44-yard drive. Wilson raced over for the conversion and the Lions were on top, 8-0 with 10:50 left in the half.

Circleville failed to generate a head of steam on its next series and once again the Lions had possession on their own 42.

Six plays later Wilson exploded over right tackle and was off and running for 17 yards and another Washington score. A pass for the conversion was no good and it was 14-0 with five minutes still on the clock.

Circleville began to move but a terrific charge by the Lions front wall dropped Perry Hoskins for a big loss as he attempted to pass and the Tigers were forced to punt.

But the Lions' receiver fumbled the kick and Circleville had good field position on the Washington 33 with 1:57 left in the half.

Hoskins hit his receiver with a great pass on the right sideline to carry deep into Lion territory. But a good hit by a Lion defender jarred the ball loose and a Blue Lion picked it up and carried it back to mid-field. The half ended with the Lions holding a 14-0 lead.

Both teams showed stout defensive efforts as the third quarter opened and they exchanged punts.

With five minutes remaining in the canto, the Tigers started to move from their own 43. Pat McNaughton made a great diving catch of a pass from Hoskins on the Washington 27.

The Blue Lions defense got tough and the Tigers found themselves with a fourth and five on the 22. A fake field goal attempt failed but Washington was offside and the Tigers had a first down on the Lions' 17-yard stripe.

Richter roared up the middle to the six and on the next play, Richter, who had 71 yards rushing in the game, turned the left side, broke a pair of tackles and rammed his way into the endzone for six points. Phil Roll booted the conversion and it was 14-7 as the quarter ended.

But the Lions showed that they are a good ball team as they came roaring back. Mark Johnson took the kickoff on his own 10 and raced to mid-field before being pulled down.

Twelve plays later Wilson turned the left side and raced seven yards into paydirt to run the count to 20-7 with eight minutes showing on the clock. A run for the conversion was stopped short of the goal line.

But there was still a lot of fight left in the Tigers. Rick Sampsil ran the kickoff back to the Tiger 32. They moved to the 45 and a first down but a fumble was recovered by Washington on the Tiger 43 to kill the threat.

The Lions ripped and raced their way to a first down on the Tiger 13 but the Red and Black defenders gave ground grudgingly and the final gun sounded as Washington had a fourth down on the Tiger six.

END OF THE "LION" — Mark Johnson 22 of Washington C. H. is belted to the ground by Circleville's Alan Underwood. Racing in to help his Tiger teammate is Jim Cordle 64. No. 80 is David Rittenhouse of the Blue Lions. Washington C. H. downed the Tigers, 20-7, to remain unbeaten.

"The game" is the Los Angeles Rams vs. the Minnesota Vikings. Don't try and tell that to the Pittsburgh Steelers and Cincinnati Bengals.

The Rams and Vikings, of course, are the National Football League's only unbeaten teams as the season reaches the halfway mark.

The Steelers would be in that select group, too, were it not for a stubborn Cincinnati defense a couple of weeks ago which paved the way to a 19-7 upset by the Bengals. As a result, the Steelers are 5-1 and just one game ahead of both Cincinnati and Cleveland in the American Conference's Central Division.

Along with the Rams-Vikings confrontation, the rest of Sunday's slate has Houston at Chicago, the New York Giants at St. Louis, Denver at the New York Jets, Oakland at Baltimore, San Diego at Cleveland, Dallas at Philadelphia, Atlanta at San Francisco, Washington at New Orleans, Miami at New England and Green Bay at Detroit. On Monday night, Buffalo hosts Kansas City.

Houston got clubbed 42-13 by Cleveland last weekend. But the winless Texans have a better than usual chance to get on the winning side. They face the Bears, who have managed only one victory thus far.

The Jets' starting quarterback against Denver will still be young Bill Demory, even though Al Woodall, initially Joe Namath's backup man, has been reactivated. The Broncos bring their AFC-leading offense into Shea Stadium for the Jets' first game at home this season.

Bubba Smith, Oakland's defensive end, returns "home" to Baltimore and will be out to sack Marty Domres, the Colts' quarterback who won his job back from rookie Bert Jones last weekend with his performance in the upset victory over Detroit.

Wide receiver Gary Garrison, who missed four games with a dislocated shoulder, may be back in the San Diego lineup for the Chargers' game against Cleveland.

The Cowboys will unleash NFC rushing leader Calvin Hill against Philadelphia—but the Eagles can counter with Tom Sullivan, No. 6 rusher and No. 5 receiver in the conference, and Roman Gabriel, who has thrown for more yards, 1,417, than anyone else in the league.

The once-bruising Washington offense still hasn't gotten untracked. It's last in the NFC. But the defense is still there and that's what New Orleans has to overcome.

New England's defense has been particularly vulnerable against a rushing team—just the kind of team Miami is. The Dolphins' Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris are Nos. 3-4 in the AFC in ground-gaining, having teamed for 954 yards.

Like the Patriots, the Lions have had trouble stopping the rush, an invitation for Green Bay's MacArthur Lane and John Brockington to explode for a big game.

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Bye Zoe, a 7-1 longshot, made its move at the three-quarter pole and went on to win the featured race by half a length Friday night at Lebanon Raceway.

The open pace victory, in 2:05 3/5 over the mile course, returned $16.20, $5.00 and $3.20. Mary Butler paid $4.00 and $3.40 for second.

The show horse was Hilltop Dot at $3.40.

Lassie Knight and Rhythm Pride, 6-5, returned $67.60 in the daily double.

A crowd of 2,617 wagered $176,858.

Westfall Gridders Rip Piketon, 20-8

Westfall gained its fourth win of the season with a convincing 20-8 decision over visiting Piketon in a Scioto Valley Conference clash Friday night.

The Mustangs dominated the game as they jumped out to a 12-0 at the end of the third quarter and matched touchdowns with the Redstreaks in the final canto.

Nelson Undergoes Surgery On Arm

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati Reds pitcher Roger Nelson, a key figure in a trade last winter but plagued by arm problems in 1973, underwent surgery Friday to free a trapped nerve.

The elbow surgery, according to team physician Dr. George Ballou and Nelson's surgeon Dr. Frank Mayfield, would relieve numbness and pain.

River Downs Sold To Florida Woman

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—River Downs race track has been sold to a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., woman for $6 million.

The Cincinnati Enquirer reported the deal in its late Saturday morning editions.

The new owner is Mrs. Joy C. Tweel, whose husband, Nicholas, is active in several Florida businesses.

Piketon's score came when Mowery raced over on a quarterback option from the eight-yard line to cap a 75-yard drive in the fourth quarter.

Gaa paced the Mustang ground game with 65 yards, Shannon added 54, Angles had 36, Terry Hegarty rolled for 24 and Dick rushed for 19.

The Mustangs picked up 16 first downs to Piketon's five. They rushed for 217 yards while picked was limited to 70 by the tough Westfall defense.

Shannon went to the air 12 times and completed six for 51 yards. Piketon completed five of 12 aerials for 54 yards.

Artie Dick kept the Redstreak in the hole most of the game with his booming punts. He applied the foot to the pigskin three times for an average of 43 yards per kick.

Westfall is now 4-4 for the season and 3-3 in SVC competition. The Mustangs will travel to Jonathan Alder Friday night.

Groundbreaking Set For Cincinnati Arena

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Groundbreaking for the $15 million Riverfront Sports Arena near Riverfront Stadium is scheduled the first week in November, said the head of a group which plans to bring professional hockey and basketball teams to Cincinnati.

Brian Heekin, president of the Cincinnati Coliseum Corp., said Friday that the groundbreaking is "our risk" since the state has not yet authorized issuance of bonds to finance construction.

Vikings Beat Dublin, 21-6

Teays Valley defeated Dublin 21-6 Friday in a game played on the Viking gridiron and strengthened its hold on second place in the Metropolitan League. The Vikings have a 5-1 league record and are 6-2 overall. West Jefferson, 34-0 winner over Hamilton Two., leads the league with a 5-0-1 record, but should the Roughriders stumble in the last league game, Teays Valley will be in the driver's seat.

The Vikings close their grid season next Friday against Hamilton Twp.

Teays Valley scored twice in the second period last night. Terry Lambert scored on a 1-yard plunge to cap a 59-yard drive with 3:13 to go until the half. With just six seconds in the half, Steve Williams booted a 23-yard field goal.

In the third period, Charles Simor scored for Dublin on an eight yard run.

In the first half, the Vikings held Dublin to two yards. Terry Lambert gained 126 yards on the ground, nearly twice the output of the entire Dublin team.

Teays Valley gained a total of 280 yards, 171 on the ground and 109 through the air. Chuck Glitt completed nine of 16 passes.

Bulls Stop Rockets; Win 121-113

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's been Chicago's misfortune to be located in the same division with the Milwaukee Bucks.

And it was Calvin Murphy's misfortune to be located on the same basketball floor with Norm Van Lier Friday night.

The Bulls made it unpleasant for the Houston Rockets by winning their fifth straight game 121-113. Yet the Bulls still trail the Bucks by one game in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association.

And Van Lier made it unpleasant for Murphy by engaging in a wild slugging match.

For his fist fight with Murphy, Van Lier was ejected from the game while Murphy stayed around to score 32 points.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston downed New York 113-101; Buffalo beat Cleveland 104-97; Milwaukee defeated Philadelphia 98-92; Kansas City/Omaha tripped Phoenix 98-93; Los Angeles nipped Detroit 94-92; Golden State outscored Seattle 117-110 and Portland crushed Atlanta 127-110.

In the American Basketball Association it was: Kentucky 104, Virginia 99; Memphis 93, Indiana 91; San Antonio 88, New York 87; Carolina 109, Denver 104 in overtime and San Diego 122, Utah 102.

Smith And Tatum Traded To Cards For Wise, Carbo

By HOWARD SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer

They won't have Reggie Smith to kick around at Boston's Fenway Park anymore.

Smith, a 28-year-old outfielder, is headed for St. Louis along with relief pitcher Ken Tatum in exchange for Cardinal right-hander Rick Wise and outfielder Bernie Carbo.

We're happy, the St. Louis bunch is happy and I hope we'll both be happy next September," declared Boston player personnel director Haywood Sullivan.

The long-rumored deal was officially announced Friday, and St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst promptly declared Smith his starting right-fielder.

The 28-year-old switch-hitter became the target of boos in Boston last August when he missed a pair of routine flyballs in the outfield. The fans felt Smith was loafing, but the outfielder said he couldn't reach the balls because of bad knees.

Smith angrily labeled Boston "a racist city" and sat out for two weeks. He returned to the lineup to have a fine year, however, hitting .303 with 21 homers and 69 runs batted in.

Smith could not be reached for comment.

St. Louis moved quickly to replace Wise, acquiring 36-year-old righty Sonny Siebert from the Texas Rangers for minor league outfielder Tommy Cruz. The Cards also sold shortstop Mike Kelleher to the Houston Astros, assigned pitcher Mike Nagy to Tulsa of the American Association and then completed a busy day by releasing veteran pitchers Eddie Fisher and Lew Krause.

On the managerial front, Dick Williams revealed that he and his former boss, Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley, had a little chat about Williams' quitting as A's Manager and Finley's refusal to free him from his contract.

Horst Muhlman Eyes Sunday Performance

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A key figure in the Cincinnati Bengals' last two victories over the Pittsburgh Steelers may need another near-flawless performance Sunday.

Kicker Horst Muhlman, who is 16-for-21 against Pittsburgh in four years, has been a nemesis to the Steelers.

"WHERE IT'S A PLEASURE TO DO BUSINESS"

Southern Cal, Irish Clash Today

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"The game" is the Los Angeles Rams vs. the Minnesota Vikings. Don't try and tell that to the Pittsburgh Steelers and Cincinnati Bengals.

The Rams and Vikings, of course, are the National Football League's only unbeaten teams as the season reaches the halfway mark.

The Steelers would be in that select group, too, were it not for a stubborn Cincinnati defense a couple of weeks ago which paved the way to a 19-7 upset by the Bengals. As a result, the Steelers are 5-1 and just one game ahead of both Cincinnati and Cleveland in the American Conference's Central Division.

Along with the Rams-Vikings confrontation, the rest of Sunday's slate has Houston at Chicago, the New York Jets, Oakland at Baltimore, San Diego at Cleveland, Dallas at Philadelphia, Atlanta at San Francisco, Washington at New Orleans, Miami at New England and Green Bay at Detroit. On Monday night, Buffalo hosts Kansas City.

Houston got clubbed 42-13 by Cleveland last weekend. But the winless Texans have a better than usual chance to get on the winning side. They face the Bears, who have managed only one victory thus far.

Rams, Vikings In Top Tilt

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern California, unbeaten but tied, puts its hopes for a second consecutive national championship on the line today against Notre Dame in one of college football's great rivalries.

"This is the biggest intersectional game of the year," says Coach John McKay of Southern Cal. "It always is, and I'm enjoying the hell out of it. I'll enjoy it win, lose or draw."

A sellout crowd of 59,075 will jam Notre Dame Stadium for the battle between sixth-ranked Southern Cal, 5-0-1, and the No. 8-rated Fighting Irish, 5-0. ABC-TV will beam the game to some 85 per cent of the country.

It's the weekend's only meeting of teams ranked in the Top Ten—or, for that matter, in the Top Twenty—by The Associated Press.

Top-rated Ohio State, tied for the Big Ten lead, entertains Northwestern in a league game while Michigan, ranked fourth, visits Minnesota and Illinois, a third co-leader, hosts Iowa.

Second-ranked Alabama, the Southeastern Conference leader, is home to Virginia Tech in a non-league clash. Ninth-ranked Louisiana State, also unbeaten but with two fewer SEC victories, visits independent South Carolina for a night game. It should prove interesting since Paul Dietzel, now at South Carolina, coached LSU to the national championship in 1958.

In the Big Eight, seventh-ranked Missouri, 2-0 in league action, visits Colorado, while Oklahoma, No. 3 nationally, is at Kansas State and 10th-ranked Nebraska plays at Oklahoma State.

Independent Penn State, rated fifth, entertains West Virginia.

The Second Ten finds No. 11 Houston at Auburn, No. 12 Arizona State at Oregon State for a night game in Portland, California at No. 13 UCLA—a victory ties UCLA with Southern Cal for the Pacific-8 lead—and Texas Christian at No. 14 Tennessee.

Also, Georgia Tech at No. 15 Tulane, Toledo at No. 16 Miami of Ohio—Miami can tie Kent State, which visits Utah State, for the Mid-American Conference lead—No. 17 Kansas at Iowa State, Southern Methodist at No. 18 Texas Tech, Rice at No. 19 Texas and No. 20 Richmond at Northeast Louisiana under the lights.

In the top game tonight, Louisiana State goes to Columbia, S.C. to meet South Carolina's Gamecocks.

Charlie McClendon, a Dietzel aide at LSU, took over as head coach when Dietzel jumped to West Point at the end of the 1961 season. This marks only the second meeting between the two as head coaches. Charlie Mac's Tigers beat Dietzel's Gamecocks 28-12 in the first, at Baton Rouge in 1966.

LSU is heavily favored to give McClendon his 95th victory. Dietzel, who began his head coaching career seven years before McClendon, has 102 victories.

The Jets' starting quarterback against Denver will still be young Bill Denney, even though Al Woodall, initially Joe Namath's backup man, has been reactivated. The Broncos bring their AFC-leading offense into Shea Stadium for the Jets' first game at home this season.

Bubba Smith, Oakland's defensive end, returns "home" to Baltimore and he'll be out to sack Marty Domres, the Colts' quarterback who won his job back from rookie Bert Jones last weekend with his performance in the upset victory over Detroit.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful day and evening to expand your activities far beyond their present boundaries combining actions with reliance on hunches. This enables you to get the best from combining mature judgment with intuitive perception. Fine for romance, too.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have fine ideas that need further study before putting them in operation successfully later. Communications can bring excellent suggestions. A day for advancement.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Delve right into responsibilities and plan how to handle others better in the future. Once your work is done, devote yourself to mate. Happiness is yours for the making.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you please close ties and outside contacts, you find you get much cooperation and the future is brighter. Do some pleasurable entertaining in the p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do some favor for those who assist you in your home or business and gain their goodwill easily. Organize your wardrobe for easy access and avoid clutter in your home.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Enjoy recreations and find the rest from worry that you need now. Do something thoughtful for close ties. Don't get taken in by a fourflusher. Think.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do whatever will make your home happier and more comfortable. Entertain some in the afternoon in a way that will charm others. Enjoy yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Attend services or study philosophical material for growth. Later get together with fascinating people for intelligent conversations. Avoid troublemakers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Thinking big will help you expand in the future, so forget all those small thoughts. Use your intuitive faculties in important matters. Spend evening with family.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Time spent at social affairs can be well spent today. State your aims to persons who can help you gain them. Do nothing off-color.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good day either to study ways to get ahead yourself, or to talk matters over with a specialist for his opinion. An extended vacation can be planned now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine day to put your sociable qualities to work in your favor and make a big impression on others. Cultivate new contacts of worth. A banner day, p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact influential persons you know and reach a fine understanding with them. Be interested in something of a civic nature for excellent future results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people whose mind is capable of almost anything who will benefit tremendously from mental, physical and spiritual travel. Be sure to give as fine a comprehensive course of education as you can, adding foreign tongues to the curricula, stressing psychology and philosophy as well. The field of imports or exports could be ideal here, giving an opportunity to roam the earth and pick up more knowledge.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful day and evening to expand your activities far beyond their present boundaries combining actions with reliance on hunches. This enables you to get the best from combining mature judgment with intuitive perception. Fine for romance, too.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr. 19) You have fine ideas that need further study before putting them in operation successfully later. Communications can bring excellent suggestions. A day for advancement.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Delve right into responsibilities and plan how to handle others better in the future. Once your work is done, devote yourself to mate. Happiness is yours for the making.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you please close ties and outside contacts, you find you get much cooperation and the future is brighter. Do some pleasurable entertaining in the p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do some favor for those who assist you in your home or business and gain their goodwill easily. Organize your wardrobe for easy access and avoid clutter in your home.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Enjoy recreations and find the rest from worry that you need now. Do something thoughtful for close ties. Don't get taken in by a fourflusher. Think.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept. 22) Do whatever will make your home happier and more comfortable. Entertain some in the afternoon in a way that will charm others. Enjoy yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Attend services or study philosophical material for growth. Later get together with fascinating people for intelligent conversations. Avoid troublemakers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Thinking big will help you expand in the future, so forget all those small thoughts. Use your intuitive faculties in important matters. Spend evening with family.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Time spent at social affairs can be well spent today. State your aims to persons who can help you gain them. Do nothing off-color.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good day either to study ways to get ahead yourself, or to talk matters over with a specialist for his opinion. An extended vacation can be planned now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine day to put your sociable qualities to work in your favor and make a big impression on others. Cultivate new contacts of worth. A banner day, p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact influential persons you know and reach a fine understanding with them. Be interested in something of a civic nature for excellent future results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people whose mind is capable of almost anything who will benefit tremendously from mental, physical and spiritual travel. Be sure to give as fine a comprehensive course of education as you can, adding foreign tongues to the curricula, stressing psychology and philosophy as well. The field of imports or exports could be ideal here, giving an opportunity to roam the earth and pick up more knowledge.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU.

UAW Slates Negotiations With GM

DETROIT (AP) — With a new contract covering its 185,000 members at Ford Motor Co. in hand, the United Auto Workers still faces stiff negotiations with General Motors Corp.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said Friday he wasn't ready to set a schedule for negotiating the GM pact but will discuss the union's next step in a Monday meeting of the International Executive Board.

The meeting was called after the UAW reached tentative agreement on a national contract with Ford only hours before a strike deadline Friday.

The three-year pact goes to the 200-member UAW Ford Council Tuesday and then to ratification votes at the UAW's 97 Ford bargaining units.

In addition, the union has yet to reach local agreements to supplement the national contract at about half of Ford's facilities.

Chrysler Corp. has signed its new contract with the auto workers, reached during a nine-day walkout last month. American Motors' national contract is up for renewal next fall.

Terms of the Ford agreement were withheld pending the meeting of the Ford Council, but they were reportedly similar to those negotiated at Chrysler. Sources said the union won an additional victory of early retirement for Ford's 9,000 foundry workers.

Forecast

Cooler, rainy weather has been forecast for Ohio this weekend.

A low, centered over Missouri and Illinois, was expected to move into western Ohio this evening. The low will move across Ohio tonight and into central New York state by Sunday evening.

Clouds were forecast to spread over Ohio today ahead of the low, and showers were expected in western counties this afternoon.

Rain is forecast for the state tonight and Sunday, and some thundershowers may occur in central and southern parts of Ohio tonight as the low crosses.

Skies were generally clear last night, except for patchy fog. Early morning temperatures ranged from 36 at Toledo and Zanesville to 46 at Cincinnati.

Highs in the upper 50s and the 60s were forecast this afternoon. Cooler weather will follow passage of the low pressure area. Lows tonight will be in the 40s and highs Sunday in the 50s.

Lavelle Urges Voters To Back Amendment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State Democratic Chairman William Lavelle of Athens has urged voters to support a proposed constitutional amendment Nov. 6 which would authorize issuance of up to $300 million to pay bonuses to Ohio veterans of the Vietnam War.

"The Ohio Democratic Party believes the veterans' bonus is the just due of Ohioans who have served in the Vietnam war," Lavelle said in a statement Friday.

Juvenile Court Ends 22 Cases Recently

Twenty-two cases were completed in last week's sessions of Juvenile Court. Judge Guy Cline heard cases against five delinquents, five traffic violators, four adults and disposed of cases where children were reported to be neglected. Acting on behalf of the prosecution in these cases were Pickaway County Prosecutor Richard L. Gerhardt and his assistant, James Kingsley.

Two Circleville boys, ages 15 and 16, were placed on probation for one year each on charges of assault and battery. The older of the two was ordered by the court to make restitution for damages.

Breaking and entering and trespassing charges were filed by Sheriff's Deputy Donald Thompson against a 16-year-old Buckeye Lake boy. The court found the youth guilty of these charges and ordered him to complete 200 hours of community work

Newsprint Price Hike Surprise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio publishers were surprised Friday by a 14 per cent newsprint price hike announced eight months before they expected.

A major Canadian paper firm said its newsprint price will go up $25 per ton to $200 next Thursday.

The announcement surprised some publishers because other paper firms had announced a schedule of price increases. The schedule called for a $15 increase Jan. 1 and a $10 increase July 1.

Publisher Edgar T. Wolfe of the Columbus Dispatch called the newest hike "a tremendous increase to have to swallow."

John E. Rowe, publisher of the Massillon Independent said the increase "means at least $30,000 to us." He said the announcement doesn't give his paper any time to determine how to cover the increase.

Harry Horvitz, publisher of newspapers in Lorain, Mansfield, New Philadelphia and Willoughby, accused the Canadian firm of taking advantage of the newsprint shortage.

"There really isn't any justification for that type of increase," Horvitz said. "There's no excuse for this."

Crashes Kill 5 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An infant and two pedestrians were listed Saturday as victims of weekend traffic accidents on Ohio highways.

The five-week-old boy died in a two-car crash in Greene County. The pedestrian deaths occurred in Sandusky and Washington counties.

The traffic count began at 6 p.m. Friday and concludes at midnight Sunday.

The dead:
SATURDAY
MANSFIELD—James Carmichael, 24, of Mansfield, when his motorcycle struck a bridge abutment on U. S. 30 in Richland County.

SPRINGFIELD—Robert Dunn Jr., 22, of Dayton, in a two-car accident on Interstate 70 in Clark County.

FRIDAY NIGHT
FAIRBORN—Ronnie Hacker, five weeks old, of Fairborn, in a two-car mishap on a Greene County road.

FREMONT—Adele Roehrich, 78, of Fremont, killed when she was struck by a car on a rural road in Sandusky County.

MARIETTA—Robert D. Cross, 49, of Little Hocking, struck by a car on a county road in Washington County.

Tax Rollback Funds Released

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five counties have received a total of $994,567.73 in property tax rollback reimbursements, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said today.

The counties are: Clermont, $424,097.27; Columbiana, $369,256.51; Clinton, $143,038.51; Pike, $42,396.34, and Vinton, $15,779.10.

Property taxes are collected and rollbacks granted in one year based on the previous year's settlement, Ferguson said. The reimbursement funds come from the state personal income tax.

Entry Suit May Save Property

YIKES!—Resembling an astronaut, the entry unit of the Circleville Fire Department will permit firemen to enter flames reaching temperatures over 1500 degrees. This type of modern equipment may save lives and property in the future.

Among the modern equipment now at the disposal of the Circleville Fire Department is an entry suit which will permit entry into direct flames of ambient temperatures of over 1500 degrees. The suite purchased at the insistence of former mayor Richard L. Gerhardt, was bought Nov. 25, 1968 — at a cost of $447.

The suit is made of an aluminized outer surface and includes a hip length coat, bib trousers, separate hood, 18 inch gauntlet style mitts and knee boots. Housing for breathing apparatus is built into the suit. A air pack which accompanies the complete uniform would provide air for up to 30 minutes depending on the activity. More strenuous fire-fighting would lessen that figure.

Circleville Fire Chief, Bernard Wolfe, stated the suit would be suitable for entering flames to turn off a gas source or to rescue fire victims. The department has been fortunate to never have had a use for the equipment since its purchase.

The single incident which probably brought about the purchase was the Bingham fire. The chief did state that the suit would have been of benefit during the fires at Circleville Oil and the old Bible College site.

Firemen could have entered the Circleville Oil fire to shut off the tank of gas. The Bible College fire was a result of an automobile striking the regulator control station and breaking it off. The suit could have been used then to enter the flames and shut off the regulator valve.

One drawback to the outfit is its inconvenience. A man could die of lack of air if there was no one else around to assist him in getting out of the headgear. The firemen report they have gotten the time down to two minutes to get in and out of the unit.

This is the same type of equipment used at Cape Kennedy and is very similar to suits worn by astronauts.

Freedom Newspapers Buys Indiana Daily

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Freedom Newspapers Inc., owner of newspapers in eight states, including Ohio, has acquired the Seymour, Ind., Tribune, an afternoon daily with a circulation of 9,372.

The paper was purchased from publisher Tom Conner and two other members of the Conner family and brings to 21 the number of papers in the chain.
